There will be few staff members, students or Board of Trustee members who will disagree that 1993 has been particularly busy, particularly demanding and sometimes a particularly difficult year.

A raft of curriculum changes, the preparation work for the National Qualifications Framework, the introduction of the National Curriculum Framework, Achievement-Based Assessment modules and the seamless Education System, have all impacted directly on schools throughout New Zealand. Increased social pressures, the lack of employment opportunities and the desperate plight of the unemployed have placed schools in the position of acting not only as places of learning and education but also as agencies of social welfare, of care and protection, of law and order and sometimes as the only consistent and steadying influence in young people's lives.

The consequences of this professional and social upheaval lead me to ask the question "how much longer can the community at large expect our schools to cope with the ever increasing demands placed on them?" I believe we are almost at the limit of our abilities to cope with the demands placed before us, almost to the point where we say "Enough!..."

Funding, support services and staffing have all virtually remained unaltered for the past 3 years and yet the demands go on. It is time for our Government and our country to accept that if it wishes to maintain our quality education service, it will need to provide the schools with the support and resources it needs. There is no longer equity of educational opportunity in New Zealand. Access to quality education, particularly post-compulsory education, is now in almost direct proportion to families' economic status.

To delay is to ignore the enormous social upheaval in our society and also to ignore the responsibility we have to the young people of our country.

Amongst all this turmoil in our society, it is therefore most pleasing to observe the outstanding achievements and quality of work of so many of our students.

Their distinguished academic record continued in 1992/93 with 68% of our School Certificate candidates gaining entry to Form 6, with 73 A level subject passes being awarded, the highest of any school in the province. In addition, at Form 7, just under 60% of our students gained a Bursary and 7 scholarship passes were awarded.

Of course we can do much better but, nevertheless, these are very pleasing results indeed.

In celebrating outstanding achievement, we must accept that academic achievement is but one facet of the overall development of our students.

Other achievements include the initiative taken by a group of senior students in setting up our school radio station, the wonderful performance of the 'Insect Play' by our Drama students, the outstanding national successes of our school volleyball teams, the growth of our Maori Culture group, the performance levels of our school bands and the amazing standard of our Jazz Band, the quality of our school newspaper and the success of our Equestrian team. By no means a definitive list but all outstanding examples of high achievements by our students.

No less impressive was the achievement of the Board of Trustees in finally securing the commitment of the Ministry of Education for Stage II of our upgrading and development programme. I am delighted to report that work has begun on the 13 classroom A Block complex and will be commissioned in time for the start of the 1994 school year. Taken together with the deferred maintenance work on the Library, B Block and B extension, another big step has been taken towards bringing our school buildings and environment up to an acceptable standard.

Negotiations and lobbying for Stage III of this programme have already begun and hopefully the impetus will continue into 1994 and beyond as we plan for the major remodel of the Technical, Art and Home Economics Block.

Achievement of another type was noted with the release of the report by the Education Review Office of our recently completed assurance audit. In his summary Mr Ian Hill, District Manager, writes, "The Board of Trustees impresses the review team as a confident and dedicated team. The members represent the range of the school community and bring a wide variety of talents and experience to the job. Their operating style is characterised by directness, openness, and a determination to do all they can to improve the educational environment and assist students in achieving their goals. As a consequence the review process was a positive and vigorous exchange.

Good documentation of the school's policies, policy statements and implementation procedures give a clear direction to the intentions of the Board and Principal. The school's strategic development plan is clear and concise and reflects the goals and objectives of the school's charter.

Staff are hard working and conscientious. Many have taken advantage of professional development to anticipate future directions of education regarding issues such as the new curricula in mathematics and science, achievement-based assessment and the move to a modular curriculum in anticipation of the imminent National Framework for education in the senior school.

The school is conscious of the socio-economic profile of its student intake. There is an emphasis on the provision of a caring physical and emotional educational environment. Student support systems are a feature of the school. There is a strong guidance network, a personalised approach to enrolment, effective strategies regarding attendance, a broad base to the curriculum, and programmes to assist in the transition to life outside the school. The way in which special needs of some students are catered for is a feature of the school".

In all those achievements we have a school in which I believe we can be justifiably proud.

This year we farewell a number of teachers who have served the school loyally and well over many many years.

They include Mrs Nanette Cooke who leaves her position as Guidance Counsellor to take up new challenges in private practice in New Plymouth, Ms Leisa McCauley to a new position at Freyberg High School in Palmerston North, Mr Alastair Wells to Francis Douglas and Mr Mike Lilly who will be moving to University in Palmerston North to embark on his post-graduate Doctoral studies in Chemistry and Mrs Margaret Williams who is going into a well-earned retirement, after serving the College for 24 years.

To them all I extend sincere thanks for the enormous contribution each and every one of them made to our school.

We also farewell a number of our Long-Term relief teachers - Ms Sonya Barry, Ms Bao-huan Sun and Mr Andreas Ries. To them, my thanks for your support of the school and of its students.

New appointments are pending in Science and Home Economics and I am pleased to announce the appointment of Mrs Sheryl Domney as teacher of Japanese and Mrs Helen Brandon as teacher in our 2nd Special Needs Unit.

1993 was an extremely busy year for the teaching staff of the school. During the year we prepared a lengthy analysis of school technology needs and directions and applied unsuccessfully to become a Technology Lighthouse school.

The school curriculum was modularised in preparation for 1994 and a series of options handbooks prepared.

Extensive staff training in Achievement-Based Assessment was undertaken. An application lodged with the New Zealand Qualifications Authority to become a provider of vocational units of the National Qualifications Framework and training was undertaken in the processes associated with total quality management and quality assurance. All these tasks, and many more, are over and above normal school expectations.

This is an enormous workload and my admiration and thanks go to the staff for their support of these projects, and their dedication to the students of Spotswood College.

The move to the National Curriculum Qualifications framework in 1994 will start a process of reform which I believe will have a significant impact on our school's ability to provide a more appropriate and meaningful curriculum. The concept of our senior students being able to access units on this framework and to achieve national recognition for their efforts, will add another dimension to our ability to provide an appropriate and meaningful education.

Spotswood College is nationally recognised as being at the forefront of this development and at this stage is literally one of a handful of schools to have achieved full accreditation as a national provider of framework units. A remarkable achievement.

In conclusion my personal thanks are extended to our wonderful supportive and hardworking teaching staff, administration staff, services staff, who together with our Board of Trustees, make a formidable team, all working together to make Spotswood College a first-rate educational establishment.

To our school prefects and in particularly Trina, Anna, Regan and John, it has been a pleasure to have worked so closely with you.

To all who are leaving, may I extend best wishes for a happy and productive life as you move on from our school. To those returning, we can look forward with anticipation to exciting times ahead.

My best wishes to you all for a very Merry Christmas and an exhilarating and prosperous New Year.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES REPORT

In September the Board of Trustees welcomed a team from the Education Review Office to the college. The team's assurance review examined the extent to which the Board was meeting its contractual obligations and undertaking to the Crown.

I am pleased to report that the review officers made the following findings:

- * The Board of Trustees impressed the review officers as being a confident and dedicated board which represents the range of the school community and who bring a wide variety of talents and experience to the job;
- * The college staff are hard-working and conscientious. Many have taken advantage of professional development to anticipate future directions of education regarding issues such as new curricula, achievement-based assessment and the move to the new National Framework;
- * There is an emphasis in the school on the provision of a caring physical and emotional educational environment;
- * The way in which the special needs of students are catered for is a feature of the school;
- * The Board of Trustees is taking all reasonable steps to provide a balanced curriculum which in turn will foster student achievement;

- * Most subject areas recognise the Board's policy direction to value Maori culture through the implementation of Maori perspective in the curriculum areas;
- * The extent of outstanding deferred maintenance and improvements for which the Ministry of Education has accepted financial responsibility is immense.

Since the introduction of Tomorrow's Schools the backlog in maintenance and improvements to the buildings have always been a frustration to the Board of Trustees in its efforts to maintain an environment conducive to effective student education.

All in all, the report was pleasing and positive. I would therefore like to take this opportunity to thank my colleagues on the Board for their hard work and dedication during the year and invite any caregiver or parent to attend a Board of Trustees meeting. Remember, we are representing your interest in the school.

The Board extends its best wishes for the festive season and wishes all students and their families a happy 1994.

HEAD GIRL'S REPORT

Well the end has come to a year full of councils, commitments, functions, meetings and responsibilities, all of which have combined to make it the most challenging year I have had at Spotswood College. However, I would not have had it any other way as the experiences, memories and opportunities the position of Head Girl have given me have definitely been well worth it.

I have made friends that will last a life time, especially on OPC which was a truly amazing week full of fun, mud and singing where everybody put aside their differences and got on really well. Also having the opportunity to attend all the New Plymouth School Balls was a definite plus.

Other highlights of my 7th Form year include Slave Day ("Thanks for a great day, Geoffrey!"), interschool prefect meetings, listening to John inform us about Boys High School in College Council meetings, as well as attending a school dance where I was the only one of the four seniors.

Other memorable events I have enjoyed in my time at Spotswood College include meeting many junior students through the Peer Support Programme as well as senior students through other activities. I have also enjoyed representing the school on many sporting occasions. However, I am concerned about the increasing number of students leaving to play for sports clubs outside the College. I firmly believe in representing the College with pride, honour and dignity.

I would like to thank everybody who has helped me throughout the year, especially Regan, John and Anna who were great in times of need. Also to all the administration staff, teachers, Mr Finch, Mrs Goldsworthy, Mr Lynch and Ms Moran for their invaluable support. And last but not least, thank you to all the students of Spotswood College. Enjoy your time here because Spotswood is simply the best.

Thank you and good luck for the future.

Trina Cowley

HEAD BOY'S REPORT

Being named Head Boy this year was one of the biggest surprises for me, my family and my friends. The thoughts of 'demanding', 'stressful' and 'gosh' came to mind. Some responsibilities involved attending Board of Trustees meetings, chairing College and Senior Councils with Trina and John and attending official functions and meetings.

This year Spotswood saw many achievements within the College. Firstly the Peer Support programme where 7th Form students helped 3rd Formers settle quickly into secondary school life. This programme proved to be a major success and I congratulate all the Peer Support leaders and wish next year's leaders all the best.

Another major achievement was the grant for the much needed refurbishment of A Block. This was influenced by the student body politely asking when this grant would be approved. The many sports codes within the school such as volleyball, equestrian, gymnastics and triathlon gaining national success was another proud achievement.

Highlights of my year would have to be climbing Mt Taranaki with the 6th Form Physical Education class, going on the OPC course with fellow 7th formers and the School Ball. Congratulations must go to the 7th Form Committee members especially the Ball Committee. One of the more memorable events would be the beginning of the Inter-Secondary School Rugby League tournament which I hope continues for many years to come. The Spotswood Senior Boys made the final of this tournament proving the strength of rugby league at the college.

I would like to thank Trina, Anna and John for being there to confide in when things were not working for me. Thank you to the prefects for making our jobs a lot easier and everything running smoothly. Thank you to all my friends and everyone at Spotswood College.

I will finish this report with a quote - "The road to the top is full of turns, curves and potholes". Only those who want success will eventually get there. But the good news is - the choice is yours! You can choose to be a winner or you can choose to be a loser. The fact is being a winner has a lot more going for it than any other alternative.

Good luck and all the best to the prefects of 1994.

IS THE WORLD A DREAM . . .

Is the sky really blue.
 Are the trees really green.
 Is there nothing there,
 or is that a real chair.
 Is the universe just an image,
 is it round or square.
 Is the world a dream.
 Is everything as it seems.
 Or are we just a theme.
 A plot in a story.
 Or are we really there.

COLLEGE COUNCIL OF PREFECTS

1993 has been a busy year for the College Council of Prefects due to the fact that we had only one study period a week which could be used for meetings. Consequently the frequency of meetings was rather limited. However, we still managed to successfully achieve many of the things we decided on at the beginning of the year.

An example of this is that we were able to organise and run a successful Mufti week. Each student paid $3 for the privilege of being in mufti for a week. Of the $3000 raised through this project, $600 went towards enabling the whole college to attend the Paraparaumu College Travelling Roadshow which everyone thoroughly enjoyed. The balance of the proceeds went into the College Council fund which would help to finance various projects.

The Council projects included one from which the whole College would benefit. $1000 worth of shrubs and plants was purchased for the garden alongside the tennis courts. The other project was the purchase of a new stereo for the 7th Form common room.

The balance of our funds have gone towards sponsoring a child in Pakistan, assisting a disabled New Plymouth athlete, the College Ball committee, the end-of-the-year barbeque and sports teams representing the College at national competitions.

This year the College Council also analysed the findings of a questionnaire given to all the students at the end of last year concerning suggestions as to how the College can be improved. The findings were passed on to Mr Finch and the Board of Trustees where many of the students ideas were recognised and implemented.

So overall it was a very successful year for the council and an experience we are sure College councillors will never forget.

HOUSE REPORTS

DARNELL HOUSE

This year somehow seemed to be a quieter year for House Sports. Great to see everyone in RED involved, especially those painted up! To date it seems we are again the "Bridesmaids", second in most events.

Good luck for 1994, make it OUR year!
Remember - Darnell: "Deadly in Red"

RICHMOND HOUSE

Our mean, clean, green image of Richmond has once again been maintained. Through our academic brilliance in the interhouse quiz, our speed and agility in the athletics and along with our stamina and strength throughout the swimming and cross-country, we proved we are a house with which to be contended.

Although we did not win everything, we endeavoured to do our best, competing with pride, commitment, courage, dedication and true team spirit which in the long run made us true winners.

So now that 1993 has nearly ended and with 1994 looming around the corner, it is time to say farewell. Thanks to Mr Bayly, our kind, trusted leader. But a special thanks to you, Richmond House and its competitors for without your participation we would have ended up like those other feeble houses.

Richmond House of colour green
Stands tall and proud like powerful trees
With their green leaves looking down
At the other houses standing around
So pull together and let's do our best
And we'll stay head and shoulders above the rest

Good luck.

House Leaders: Mark Jones, Moana-Jane Scott, Amber Erueti and Mr Bayly.

BARRETT HOUSE REPORT

Congratulations and many thanks to the Barret House students who participated in the inter-house events and helped to make the year a success. Next year we hope to see the inter-house sports continued and a higher degree of participation especially from the junior school. However, with brilliant brains like that of Trina Cowley - naming entire galaxies in reverse order in the inter-house quiz, Barrett experienced many significant successes.

Many thanks to Jamie Stewart - McDonald and Amanda Long, our trustworthy deputy House Leaders who filled in well during the rare event of our absence. Also big thanks to Mrs Charteris our dedicated, spirited, fun, motivating and boisterous House teacher. Together we combined for an enjoyable and rewarding year in the sporting and academic arenas.

Jenni O'Connor & Guy Honnor
House Leaders

ATKINSON HOUSE

Well, another year has passed - a year full of sporting achievements for many of our students. It has also been a year full of house sports. I must say as co-house leader that I was disappointed with our spirit and attitude. I am among those who really enjoy house sports but the basic facts are that if you do not turn up, there will be fewer house sports.

Atkinson had a good sporting year and although we did not do as well as we would have hoped, the students in our house always gave it 100%. To all of next year's students, especially those in Atkinson House, give it your all and have fun. Thanks to Miss Andrews for her continuing help with our house. Believe me, you do have tons of fun even if it means covering yourself in yellow paint and running around the field yelling "Go Atkinson - where bananas are the "in fruit!!"

SPOTSWOOD COLLEGE FAREWELLS MRS WILLIAMS

Spotswood College and the English Department sadly bid farewell to one of the College's longest-serving teachers, Mrs Margaret Williams, who is embarking on a well-earned rest from teaching. It is only fitting that Mrs Williams should tell us a little about her experiences.

"I wouldn't dare talk about some of the experiences I have had at Spotswood. I can only say that some of my more memorable experiences have involved teachers - one in particular who, because I am small, delighted in carrying me, fireman fashion, from B.Block to the staffroom. No matter how often I tried to avoid him he would swoop me up, much to the delight of the pupils. I didn't plan a revenge but when the opportunity presented itself I took it. I was passing his room, and he was teaching senior students. I quietly went up to him and whispered, "Did you know your fly is open?" His embarrassment and confusion was a joy to behold!

The early years of my twenty-five were wonderful years. The staff became the family I had left behind in Scotland. We respected each other and took care of each other, we danced together and sang together, and no one danced better than one male who shall remain nameless but who now occupies a large office in the corridor. The staffroom was a place of good fun but changes came as changes are wont to do. Too many, too fast and in the changes something was lost, and though we are still a friendly staff the family atmosphere is gone.

I taught the seniors ballroom dancing for many years, always on a Wednesday night, in preparation for their yearly ball. The dance lessons became a social night for past pupils as well as the pupils at the school. It was interesting to see all the blossoming romances, some which have remained and have now produced offspring who now attend Spotswood College. The one thing I didn't like was being left in the dark hall all by myself, usually about 10 p.m.

I was part of the school when it was separated into East and West School. It was an interesting time and a time when pupils were more competitive, sporting and cultural activities seemed to thrive. I eventually became Senior Mistress of East School.

Under the leadership of Mr Thomas, the school became as one, and I became Dean of all Third Forms, boys and girls. There were usually 320 plus each year. As we had no Guidance Counsellors then, as Dean, I was disciplinarian, guidance teacher, mother confessor, I put them into classes, or out of classes as was necessary. I even hugged (we were allowed to hug then) when the occasion needed a hug. Boys, of course, had to be patted on the head and occasionally patted on the other end, something I did not do. I only patted the heads.

I've been very fortunate to have met and taught some really wonderful pupils, many who have become fine members of society. I love meeting them and to hear of their progress and feel that in some minute way I have contributed to their ongoing love of learning.

What will I do in my retirement? The word "retire" conjures up a time to lie down and fade away. I like to think, that for me, it will mean a time to 'wake up'. After so many years of giving all I possess, mentally, to the pupils in my care, I have lost sight of who "I" really am. I need to discover "ME" and like all explorers, I will have a great time. Where shall I start? By giving my brain and my emotions time to quieten down. Then I will do as all explorers do, gather all the equipment I need for my journey. Beautiful music, meditation, yoga, writing equipment, some paint brushes (fence) a good art tutor, nothing to do with fence, a discussion group, friends, peace, and above all, for real survival, to find the dignity I feel has been slowly drained from me over the past few years. I'm looking forward to my journey and though I feel I still have hundreds of years teaching left in me, it is time to go.

Many thanks to all the pupils who have made my twenty-five years, at times, a joyous time, and thanks to my colleagues who have been there when I needed them."

MAN OF THE FUTURE

I am a child
I am the things of my past
I am the darkness of my mother
I am the height of my father
I am all I see
Girls writing love letters
Angela's cool guys
Dumb and geeks
TV ads of guys wanting to build up their muscles
And worry about their hair
And their tan

I am all I hear
"Just give it to her to shut her up"
"Come on, I'm ready to go"
"Act your age"
Water sounding like rain as it enters the sink
It's dishes time

And I'm all I feel and taste
Hard round pebbles under my toes
The rough bark on a tree
The smell of rubber from a car
The rich taste of dark chocolate in my mouth
The coldness of a melting ice-cream

And all I remember
Sitting in a class doing detention
Looking out at everyone sitting in the sun
I knew I should have done my homework
This is me
And this is my life
As I'm turning out to be
A man of the future

SUFFRAGE YEAR 1993

To commemorate the year that women gained the vote in New Zealand, a group of keen staff and students met to form an on-going programme of celebration.

The programme began with a speech to both assemblies by Elaine Gill, head of Tourism Taranaki and chairperson of the College Board of Trustees. Other speakers included Ida Gaskin who urged us all to be like Boadicea; Emma Smith and Megan Gundeson, both lawyers and finally Sonja Davies, enjoying the success of her autobiography - 'Bread and Roses'.

Other activities included the making of suffrage ribbons. Thanks to Nannette Cooke, many staff members are proud wearers of the ribbons. There was the printing of the Suffrage News. Thanks to Alistair Wells for the logo and to Jenni O'Connor and Leisa McCauley for the publication.

Our piece de resistance was the Commemoration Day to which present and past students and staff were invited to watch the annual Spotswood United/Spotswood College A netball game, to have lunch and then to plant a mauve and white camellia and azalea garden. It was a very pleasant occasion and already we are enjoying the flowers. A writing competition was also held and congratulations to Sonja Owens, Bianca Wilks and Tamsin Chivers for their successful entries.

To women of the next 100 years - continue to value ourselves and fight for what you value.

Saw myself reflecting once, took a long time to get over it what a moment, out of that hard seed of resentment my future was born screaming with a lack of beauty or peace. I'm wishing you well, wishing everyone else a bowl of cherries and dressing them in diamonds I don't deserve, I laugh at myself as I bleed to death, this love is true hidden glass in a garden full of flowers. That's how I found you, wrapped in my futile hopes, sleeping lightly on those flowers in sunshine calm and sweet you knew, and if you minded you hid it well and that's all that counts, I get it all mixed up but it comes out right somehow the way I mean it and think it in the first place. You are familiar to me and at least I'm trying to understand at least I still believe in these things like magic and dreams. I tripped and fell into a big blue wobbly thing, at first I thought it was a tear but it was the sea and I sank and drowned, the flowers on your bedside table wilted it kept you amused for a few seconds then feeling bored you summoned me to you, dead as I was and blue, and demanded a story, in the beginning it was so brutal, everyone was hurt and bleeding the popular body count was swollen we gave up, then the sun came out and dried up all the rain and tears and in my wincy spider climbed up and out again, you were well pleased though you didn't laugh I used a gentle touch, you were well on your way roses bloomed in your cheeks I read that some where, ultimately you were responsibly going to save the world, freedom was ahead you left me just out of reach living by the sea in a tent, so happy, we were still friends occasionally you visited bringing Italian plum tomatoes and cans of baked beans, I needed someone to watch TV with you said and wrote away for a mail order philippino groom who I politely fed to my goldfish. Every now and then I saw him grinning behind the golden scales, I found myself to be too alone and repaired the situation by running away with the gypsies, eventually I found a kind of safety, lost so deep in a forest no one not even myself could find me.

I treated you like a child you were only five, I washed my hair with you washed the soap out pouring saucepan fulls of water over your head you poured over me, later we would swim in the pool jumping off the side you imagined you were a milkshake bubbles zinging off your skin different flavours too, banana was best, later too after swims we would lie on the hot concrete the fronts and bottoms of our togs were dulled like with sandpaper, there were prickles hiding in the grass, ice blocks were 20 cents I got my own room, now in summer when it was bedtime but still light and too hot to sleep, we didn't climb out the bedroom window and race around the back garden, creeping past mummy in the workshop daring each other over the dark scary river, you got taller gradually creeping up past my elbow my shoulder my ear you had a best friend you liked going into town putting on make-up, eventually you caught up with me we went to the same school you were embarrassed we didn't talk much but still watched TV together.

FROM THE DIARY OF A YOUNG ENGLISHMAN

Late last summer, holidaying in France I had the good fortune to visit an exhibition completely refreshing in its uniqueness. Entitled 'BIRTHRITES', it took me on a journey through the history of mankind which quite startled my former perception of it. In fact I must correct myself - for it specifically sought to illustrate an historical glimpse of Womankind; the 'Other History' somehow overlooked, which when rediscovered, enthuses one's awareness of Humanity and its past.

As I walked through great corridors of cave art I saw emerging from the generous strokes and energy-driven forms a vision of fertility worship, a people who recognised the growth and birth of all things in nature as a part of the feminine principle. This was the expression of a strong reverence for women, who were inherent life-keepers and nourishers because they possessed wombs and mysterious menstrual blood; they were precious.

Stunningly, this concept of feminine sacredness was universal to hundreds, maybe thousands of diverse primitive peoples. I saw the creations of the world's ancestors; venus figures without number in their various manifestations; fat and heavy-breasted, beneficent, beautiful to innocent minds. Crudely shaped or artfully depicted, these deities were one in essence. Tokens of their powers abounded in indigenous art and worship. Representatives of moon goddesses appeared in the lore of East and West, in Indian arcana and Welsh poetry, from Indonesian legend and Chinese tradition. I viewed the fertility symbols in the dances of the African and in the harvest festivals of the Greek. I saw the women revered as storehouses of knowledge in Arabian Africa, admired for their mastery of wortcunning in England, cherished as wise-women in South America . . . I watched fine tenacious women leading armies for their clans and countries, and others feeding villages with their enterprise. The emblems of primal admiration were precious; on them depended the flourishing crops, the healthy babies, and the strength of the menfolk.

Yet through the centuries I sensed the unvoiced jealousy of a man and the tragedy of power-perverted leadership. Through religious excuses I saw a woman who could not speak out and another who was killed for witch-craft. I saw faces subdued behind protective black veiling and others bruised by misdirected anger. I saw cities of women who washed and cooked and bore children for love or obedience and nations who gave their women to men as possessions.

I trembled for these multitudes and marvelled at their dignity as they carried water and sacrificed lifetimes and rejoiced when a girl-child learned to write her name and read. I pitied the patriarchs who legislated frantically to tie up women's freedom and felt the awe of victory when a daughter stood to take her place as a world citizen. I sighed to realise the one-sided documentation of my own contemporary culture, and settled my hope on the few isolated tribes who still uphold Woman as likened to God, the Life-Giver.

At that moment I understood the passion of the despised suffragists and their indignation at the libraries of men's stories and perpetual celebration of distinguished men. For here in front of me lay thousands of years of heroic lives deemed by male historians unworthy of recount. The feminine principle, glorified and degraded while constantly fuelling the earth's motion . . . I wanted every one to know that this age is for achieving wholeness and justice; and for the fertility dances to be revived.

I departed from those museum-halls through a pavilion of French flowers and to the rhythm of peasant music. In my heart I stored each tender image, which seemed to me like the missing pages of a very ancient book.

CONCERT BAND

This year the Concert Band consisted of approximately 35 members. As we are the largest band in the college we did not travel to many performances. However, we had the pleasure of performing at the hospital for Ward 21 and we also had the chance to play for two local intermediates, Devon and Highlands. Our major achievement for the year though was our attendance at the North Island Concert Band National Festival in Hamilton where we gained a bronze medal. The band would not have been able to perform as well as it did without the help of Mr Stassen and Mr Bradshaw.

This will be the last we see of our 7th Formers, Daniel Smart and Hilary Gabites and we extend our thanks to them for their loyal support and fine musicianship over the years and we wish them well in the future.

We hope next year will be just as eventful and successful as this year has been.

JAZZ BAND

The Jazz Band is a group of musically talented instrumentalists ranging in age from the 3rd Form to the 6th Form. There are 17 members and each one of us is deeply committed to our band which is known as 'Hatrix' because of the bright red assortment of hats which we wear. These hats are complemented by green waistcoats and the classic black bowtie.

This year we travelled around New Plymouth attending performances that we were invited to. These included many Rotary concerts, gala days, shop anniversaries, flower festivals and the British Lions versus Taranaki rugby match. Highlight of the year for 'Hatrix' was our trip to Tauranga to attend the annual Tauranga Jazz Festival. We all enjoyed the trip itself and just to be there amongst other jazz musicians was good in itself. The bonus was the two awards that our small band from Spotswood College took home: Sam Malili - "Best Trombone Player" and Tammy Thompson - "Best Trumpet Sound".

For a band like 'Hatrix' to work, there needs to be a great man in charge and our great man is Mr Stassen. ("Thanks Lou, baby!"). To fill the places left by those jazz band students who move on, Mr Stassen has started a junior jazz band, so perhaps the 'Sound of Hatrix' will go on forever!

Tammy Thompson

3RD FORM BAND

This year the Beginner Band was big enough to be divided into two groups - 3Y and 3U. They met at different times under the conductorship of Mr Stassen and Mr Bradshaw and came together to play at concerts as the year went on. The first of these concerts was a performance for our parents at a PTA meeting toward the end of the first term. Everyone who heard us was impressed with the progress we made in such a short time. We also had an opportunity to display our talents at two Band Boosters concerts - one during the second term, and the other early in November and we will have a further opportunity to show we can do at Junior Prizegiving.

It remains for us to say 'thank you' to our tutors Mr Bradshaw, Mr Stassen, Mr Dwyer, Mr Sole and Mrs Dodd for all of the hard work they have done on our behalf. As a result of their efforts and ours, it has been a fun year - we have learned a lot, and most of us are keen to come back as next year's 4th Form Band.

P.S. Thanks, too, for all the lollies, Mr Bradshaw!

4TH FORM BAND

1993 has been an eventful year for the 4th Form Band. In April we played for the Ward 21 patients at Taranaki Base Hospital, and in August we joined with the other bands to give an impressive concert in the school hall. The beginning of Term 3 saw us on an enjoyable interschool visit to Tamatea High School near Napier. This was followed by a performance for the Stroke Foundation at Fitzroy, and another Band Boosters concert. Over the next few weeks we will have the honour of standing in for the Jazz Band at public performances like the one at Moturoa Primary School Gala and the teachers graduation ceremony at Kaimata School near Inglewood, and, of course, Junior Prizegiving where we will be playing a bracket of items which will include 'Puttin' On The Ritz' and the 'Pink Panther' theme. Thank you tutors and parents in the Band Boosters for the help and support you have given us over the year. Without your assistance we would never have reached our present high standard of performance.

SHAKESPEARIAN DRAMA 93

A small group of 5th form students participated in the Drama section of the Interschool Speech and Drama Festival. Their performance of an abridged version of 'Hamlet', in black costumes with white face and masks was an interesting contrast to the other more traditional pieces.

The group did a commendable job in the short amount of time available and limited resources but they still furthered Spotswood College's reputation as lively and imaginative exponents of Shakespearian Drama.

The talented thespians were:

Stacey Picard, Jeremy Maxwell, Justin Palmer, Lucie Goudie, Sharleen Maddox, Craig Smart, Clayton Townsend.

Ms Stallard

SPEAKING AND DEBATING

Over the last few years it has been quite noticeable how the participation level in the school speech competition has increased. This year it took an entire morning for the speeches to be judged. The participation level allowed Spotswood College to field a competitive team at the Interschool Speech and Drama festival.

A new category of speech presentation has entered the school this year. It is called the Cluster Speech. This involves no more than three speakers presenting the one speech . . . it's not as easy as it sounds. This year's winners in this section were Tansi Erueti and Glennar Huntley.

Jamie Banks once again charmed his audience as well as the judges with a finely prepared and presented speech. He was first in the sixth form and won outright the senior title. Jamie's talents went with the school's name to the Speech and Drama festival at Girls High and was credibly placed.

Best seventh form speaker for 1993 was Geoffrey Churchill, with a passionate and clever speech on the state of the world today. Cherie Pollard pipped at the post plenty of other fifth form students to take out the best fifth form speaker.

Third and fourth form speakers were equally divided in number between male and female, not too often does this occur, another first, maybe. Alisha Parsottan won best fourth former speaker with a lively and humorous speech on Snags (Sensitive New Age Guys) Alisha also represented Spotswood College at the Speech and Drama festival with merit. Fraser Richards' confidence in speaking was obvious to all as he with his expressive stance, gestures and voice took the title of Best Third Form Speaker for 1993.

Rivals now for a couple of years in the Impromptu category are Stacey Picard and Patrick Watson. Each year the audience enjoys this competition. This year on the topic of The New Age Sensitive Guy, Patrick came through to win. The topic was certainly easier than the one given to him at the Speech and Drama Festival . . . here goes;

"New Zealand should have an open door policy when it comes to immigration".

Finally a mention of another success, our Junior debaters. What can one say, trained, controlled and encouraged by the skilled debater himself, Mr Gilmore, this team of Odessa Owens, Nancy De Bueger and Deanna Waters took out FIRST PLACE at the Interschool Speech and Drama Festival. An absolutely marvellous effort.

So if you can talk, become part of a part of the success at Spotswood College and be in next year at the INSCHOOL SPEECH COMPETITION.

Thanks to the organising teacher - Mr Greenhill, Mr Gilmore for developing a successful debating team and judges Mrs Williams, Mr Lotter, Ms McCauley and Ms Stallard. Thanks also to all the English Teachers who prepared their students for this year's competition.

Mr S. Greenhill

THE WASTE OF THE HUMAN RACE

(Winning F7 Speech - Geoffrey Churchill)

In the western spiral arm of a minutely small galaxy, lost amongst an infinite and eternal universe, on an even more minute blue-green planet which is two-thirds covered by water, there lives a race of bipeds. Despite being only four million in number, they have managed to civilise, commercialise, centralise, contaminate, irradiate, dictate, castrate, warp, maim and nearly destroy a large percentage of the 5.7 billion square miles that they have access to.

This race, of course, is ourselves, and the biggest waste is not our land but our intelligence.

Dr George Wald, a Canadian professor of biology and Nobel Prizewinner, said, "There is no such thing as bad science." Knowledge is not evil but it is man, if you pardon the male pronoun, that makes it so. Metaphorically, walking is advancement, but walking off a cliff is not progress. The use of science for the purpose of war and commercial gain alone is merely raping knowledge. The amount that the USA spends on weapons of war in a fortnight would feed the world for a year.

War is not the only way by which we waste knowledge. A medium in which a large percentage of our population become involved in each evening is that of the television, once referred to as 'the drug of a nation.' It is a medium which has immortalised, demoralised and desensitised our society. Television tells us that 'straight teeth in your mouth is more important than the words that come out of it.' Shows like 'Beverly Hills 90210' commercialise serious teenage themes. Problems such as drug abuse, alcohol and teenage sex are dealt with on a regular basis. It seems everything happens to the cast. To hear one night Dylan coping with alcohol addiction and then Steve cheating the school, leaves parents wondering "Just what do my teenagers do?" and teenagers wondering "Where do I get a life like that?". To add insult to injury, every member of the cast fits into the beautiful starlet - mould which very few teenagers fit into. Surely, if this is what we do to our knowledge, would not the time, money and effort be better spent on guidance counsellors, drug and alcohol rehabilitation, better teaching facilities and, dare anyone advise it, family communication.

Not even current affairs is immune. It, too, has been commercially adapted with euphemisms. When a soldier is shot by his own army, it is called 'friendly fire'; oil leakages are sometimes referred to as 'mousse', and what the common people would call a depression is called a 'necessary economic downturn'. Competition for having the largest viewing audience has created the battle for showing the harder hitting and socially aware documentary. Australia's 'Sex' programme, despite having serious discussions on issues such as gay rights and abortions, also continues to screen material on 'sexier dressing' and 'amateur pornography stars' which seems to have little to do with the important debates on sex.

Let us not forget the violence screened on television. Not only in cartoons where a cat happily belts his friend about the head to the cry of 'happy, happy, joy, joy'; not only in action movies where Rambo successfully manages to cleanse a wound by burning it with gunpowder, but also in our news coverage of wars. It is estimated that by the time a child reaches the age of 17, the child would have witnessed over 10,000 murders or acts of violence.

Knowledge is not only science but economics is also a part of that knowledge. It, too, is being wasted in one of America's current problems, drugs. Some of the greatest moneymakers would have to be those dealing in the millions of dirty dollars that circulate in the American drug scene, and in a land where Donald Trump is an idol, imagine what heroes could be made by diverting criminals into legal paths. This is not forgetting the chemistry involved with the manufacturing of these drugs, skills that could easily fit into the socially acceptable oil and pharmaceutical industries.

Some would immediately key into a problem with this, the money incentive. But look at it like this. Donald Trump did not become famous for being poor, and the pay packet of a chemical engineer would far exceed that of a cocaine technician. More possibly is the education of minority groups, those who need the education are not getting it. Instead of spending millions on another blockbuster movie or the arms war, perhaps money could be spent on the education of the poor and the re-education of those who offend.

Above all else, though, the biggest waste in our society is the waste of ourselves. We have segregated ourselves into colour, race, sex, religion, age, social standing and cashflow. We wage wars and kill large numbers of the population for what would amount to less than the bit of land between two blades of grass in comparison to the galaxy. Prostitution, drugs, alcohol, rape, violence, war, unemployment are large wastes of what I am reluctant to call resources, reluctant because we are far more important.

In the words of William Shakespeare

"Far the sweetest things turn sourest by their deeds
Lilies that fester smell far worse than weeds."

We who are the future cannot let ourselves, or our knowledge, become the sewage of a system that only perpetuates this waste, for the waste of ourselves is tenfold the waste of our knowledge. We can correct the misuse of our knowledge. It is much harder to correct the misuse of ourselves.

In conclusion, a friend said to me,
"When weak, act strong,
when strong, act weak."

I would like to adjust this to
"When weak, be strong,
when strong, be stronger."

With so much waste in our history and so much waste in our present, the future depends on our strength to change. We must not let ourselves become waste.

ACCEPTING PEOPLE FOR WHO THEY ARE NOT WHAT THEY ARE

It doesn't matter what colour eyes you have
It doesn't matter how tall you are
It doesn't matter what your attitude is like
As long as you are human

It doesn't matter how shy you are
It doesn't matter how abnormal you act
It doesn't matter how loud you might be
As long as you are normal

It doesn't matter if you are male or female
It doesn't matter if you are black or white
It doesn't matter what colour hair you have
As long as you are human

It doesn't matter how boisterous you may be
It doesn't matter if your feet smell bad
It doesn't matter what kind of background you have
As long as you are human

It doesn't matter how many parents you live with
It doesn't matter what your boy/girlfriend's like
It doesn't matter what your friends are like
As long as you are human

It doesn't matter what you see or hear
It's what's on the inside that really counts
And to find out what that is like
You really have to get to know each other

THE HERD

I'm sitting here and the bell's ringing, Everyone's moving slowly off to class. I stand, caught up in the surge, overpowered by about a million pushing people, laughing and yelling. And I'm standing here. I feel like I'm the only still thing on the planet, me and my bench. I'm zooming up, looking down on the top of my head, my dark hair, still. And there's people milling around me, shoving past and blabbing, and I'm still, I'm crying, and I'm the only sane person here. Until I move off, slowly, join the herd, Walk to class.

BIRTH OF CLARITY

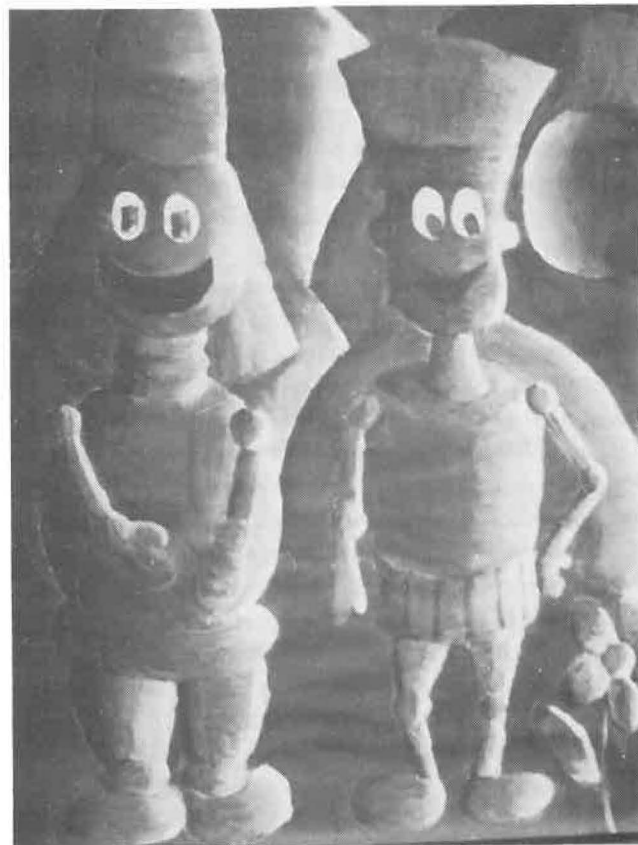

Deep in the cave holes
The dim-soft womb-halls
Of holy knowing; her being
Uncurls, awake now.

Silent energy calls her
As a pure light hails
A child's eyes; and desires
Uncoil, free now.

SPACE - THE FINAL FRONTIER

The place where Captain James T Kirk has no fear
The place where Martians shoot their red lasers, and are said to exist while they invade the Earth, we are defiant and resist an invasion from Mars? Get ready, no way!
We'll kick their behinds back to the Milky Way!
While we wonder what's the next surprise as we dream of things behind the sunrise.
Maybe one day we'll travel through space at the speed of light, a slow walking pace.
Thus centuries of dreaming will come to an end so that Jean Luc Picard can stop off at an intergalactic burger bar!

THE PROPHECY OF EL SHADDAI

People filled with destructive memories wander lifelessly in the remaining silence along death's path,
Failure lurks within, destroying humanity
Belief remains, embedded amongst the religious spirits of those who are followers,
Revelations' prophecy has been fulfilled as man fails to survive once more, while nature is resurrected victoriously.
God's prediction of demonic failure has brought down the weakened knees of all mankind to realise the true destiny of their wisdom.
Nature reaches out every time the grip of prosperity is broken.
Man fails to grab hold of tranquility and gives death the honour to command their treacherous souls,
Faith remains in those who believe,
Lucifer's reign has finally decayed as he pays his price for his jealous, rebellious actions.
Man has now to rebuild,
Nature has always had the foundations.

COLLEGE PRODUCTION

"The Insect Play" by the Brothers Capek

1993 gave Spotswood theatre buffs a treat. For all sorts of reasons it was decided to present the major production in the Opera House. Next year the West End and/or Broadway!

Over eighty students auditioned for the forty-five parts; the sixth form communications class prepared the set and some of the costumes; large numbers of staff helped out in many, many ways; parents chipped in their usual wonderful support; the community at large supported the production too. And. Because of the very high quality of the show everyone was a winner.

The characters in the play were almost all insects - sounds a bit like a kids show - but no, each of the four scenes examined some deep and meaningful aspect of life just like one would expect from a school play, being an educational institution, and all. In fact, there were some murmurings that the play, and its venue, might be more than the college could manage. But the intrepid producer, Mr C, and the amazing actors were well up to the task of revealing the subtleties of love and sex, and materialism and greed, and house and home, and work and play, and lies and truth, and peace and war, the temporary and the eternal, the death and life.

The costumes were amazingly amazing. Kristin Abel and an amazing team made amazing butterfly wings; amazing ants bums; moths that were ethereally amazing; and an ichneumon fly and his larval daughter that were little short of amazing; and the slimy parasite was amazingly slimy with it, and Mr Cricket with his pregnant wife had an amazing death scene, and what about the amazing golden chrysalis. If you think all this 'amazing' business is a bit overdone then get a copy of the video and see for yourself just how amazing it was.

The set, with its four metre high daffodils, five metre high grasses, hollow tree stumps and ant hill, all expertly constructed and coloured created just the right atmosphere for showing up humanity as a tiny little insect. We should not fail to mention the one metre high dung ball which with its attendant dung beetles was an audience favourite.

Very impressive was the acting of the students. People who know about these things said that this was not a kids show, that it was a professional production, that the actors used their voices professionally, that the actors moved beautifully, that the whole play worked together, that you don't see better theatre from adults, that this was 'Theatre' (said with a capital T). One prominent New Plymouth producer who saw the show said that 'The Insect Play' was "the best student reproduction I have seen in my life!"

All credit must go to the student actors who performed with a maturity well beyond their years. No-one in the very large cast stood out as not belonging to this high quality production. The show was a wonderful evidence of what happens when lovely people pool their talents and commitment to a project. The result is success on success.

This show was a complete theatre experience for all those involved. Rigorous rehearsal, publicity and sponsorship, wardrobe (really amazing), professional lighting, impressive set, expert make-up, backstage discipline, a great play, much acclaimed performances, and the New Plymouth Opera House all combined to give Spotswood a year to remember.

SIXTH FORM JOURNALISM

'Off The Wall' is not just the name of the Spotswood College newspaper. For the 1993 Sixth Form Journalism class it became a way of life. Journalism is a Sixth Form Certificate option that is designed to produce the three college newspapers each year. This year's class was made up of 24 sixth formers and a handful of seventh formers who worked under the watchful eye of Mrs Charteris. The subject was new not only to the students but also to Mrs Charteris who took up the reins from Mrs Goldsmith.

We started off the year with enough enthusiasm to trigger the mountain to blow. As time got closer to our first deadline, we realised just how much work went into producing this wonderful piece of literature. The second paper came along a bit better. We were aided with the use of the computer room and a telephone at our disposal. Once again we persevered and got the paper to the printers only a couple of days after the deadline.

The third paper was our biggest challenge because we had to meet a shorter deadline. With only two weeks to go, we were $1000 short of advertising and did not have much copy. It was in those dying days when the candles were burning low that a voice came out of the darkness saying, "The sooner you get this paper to print, the sooner you can have a holiday."

After our many late nights and weekends slaving away in the computer room, the staff at Taranaki Newspapers hid as they saw Mrs C and the clan come bowling through the door. Three weeks later, 2000 copies pulled into the school in the boot of Mrs C's car, ready to be distributed.

Perhaps the biggest buzz this year was to see the paper rolling off the printing press. All our sweat, tears and nervous breakdowns were forgotten as we saw our baby finished.

The paper could not have been the success it was without the help of so many people. Thanks to all the staff who have helped in one way or another. But the biggest thank you has to go to all those sponsors who parted with some of their hard-earned money to advertise with us. Without their help it would not have been possible. We hope that in return for your help, students from Spotswood College will support you.

If there is one thing we have learnt this year, apart from discovering that Hawaiian pizzas are nicer than Supreme, is that you have to set yourself a goal and always keep it in sight. That is how the 1993 Journalism class has done it. Finally, a quote from poet Sam Hunt - 'Keep those cosmic vibes bouncing 'Off the Wall' "

MATHEMATICS COMPETITIONS

This year many students from Spotswood took part in several mathematics competitions on offer. There were some excellent results with the highlight being the 5th Form team of Carmel Jacobs, Rachael Walker, Dean Heard and David Finnikin winning the Taranaki Mathematics Association Calculator Quiz beating teams from all over Taranaki. At the Texas Calculators Junior teams event, the 4H team finished second in Taranaki.

Individual contests are run each year by Westpac, BNZ and National Banks. These provided both prizes and, perhaps more importantly, certificates of merit to those performing with distinction - a valuable addition to the CV's of the competitors. This year there were some outstanding achievements, including in the Westpac contest which is held throughout Australasia, 16 distinction awards and 21 credit awards!

If you have some mathematical talent (you don't need to be an Einstein!) then take part in 1994 - the rewards could be the edge you need when you present your CV in the future.

TARANAKI SECONDARY SCHOOLS ATHLETIC CHAMPIONSHIPS

The 1993 annual Taranaki Secondary Schools Cross Country Championships were held at Francis Douglas College on Tuesday 1st June. This year, the Taranaki Secondary Schools Sports Association decided to schedule this annual event in early-June rather than in early-October so that runners could use it as a build-up to the national championships in late June.

Spotswood College was represented by a team of 41 who in the overcast and mild conditions ran well with many runners improving on their individual placings gained at the 1992 championships at Okato.

The best individual efforts were recorded by Erin Rayner - 2nd in the Intermediate girls race, Nichola Johnson 3rd also in the intermediate girls race. Jason Bell 5th in the senior boys and Dion Pigott who finished 9th in the junior boys race.

In the teams event that was based on the first six runners from each school, Spotswood recorded a 3rd in the intermediate girls and 4th in both intermediate boys and senior girls races.

Spotswood results were:

JUNIOR GIRLS: 3km - Kiri Schumacher 17th, Tamsin Corkill 30th, Angela Kirkpatrick 49th, Rachel Russell 58th, Gemma Wiltshire 59th, Odessa Owens 63rd, Emma Parkes DNF.

Teams events - 276 points - 6th place.

JUNIOR BOYS: 3km - Dion Pigott 9th, Sam Erikson 21st, Andrew Nicholls 26th, Robert Webber 37th, Phillip Rose 50th, John Niwa 54th.

Teams event - 197 points - 5th.

INTERMEDIATE GIRLS: 3km - Erin Rayner 2nd, Nichola Johnson 3rd, Hayley Johns 16th, Mariana Kearvell 28th, Helan Tompkins 34th, Anna Looney 35th, Stephanie Hodson 56th, Nancy de Bueger 59th.

Teams event - 118 points - 3rd.

INTERMEDIATE BOYS: 4.5km - David Carter 12th, Dimetre Triadis 20th, Jamie Gilbert 33rd, Zane Bosson 40th, Derek Stubbing 41st, Patrick Watson 51st, Keith Bramald 55th, Chris Batten 59th.

Team event - 197 points - 4th.

SENIOR GIRLS: 3km - Trina Cowley 13th, Moana-Jane Scott 14th, Cheryl Cottam 20th, Nichola Young 21st, Bianca Wilks 23rd, Lynette Knuth 29th, Joanne Bromfield 36th.

Team event - 120 points - 4th.

SENIOR BOYS: 4.5km - Jason Bell 5th, Toby Wright 14th, Scott Poad 15th, Shaun Wilton 21st.

SAM'S VIEW OF LIFE

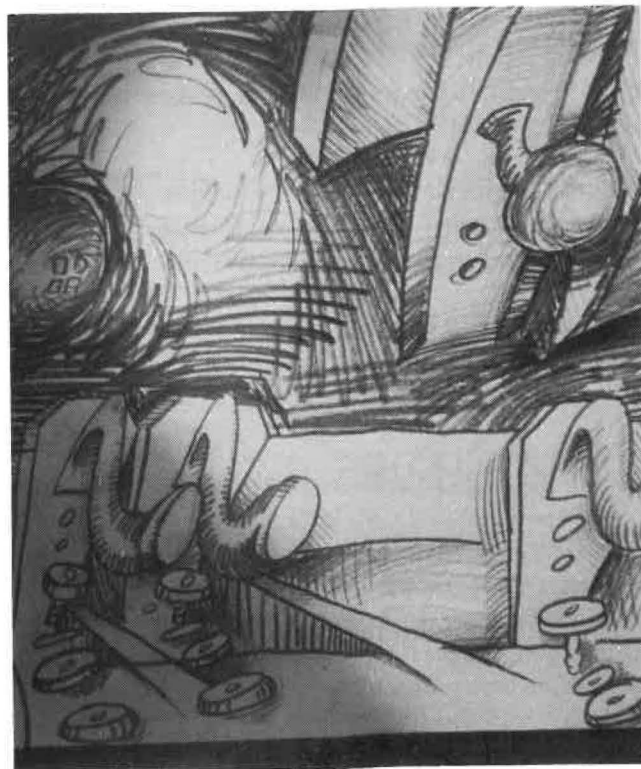

Life starts off in the womb
Where, I confess there isn't much room
For you to grow,
So meiosis seems slow,
But once you come out,
You start to sprout,
And when you hit a certain age,
They throw you in a cage,
Commonly known as a school,
Where the grizzly teachers rule,
But you get out of there,
And let down your hair,
And achieve your life's goal,
So you join the dole,
And then you die.

D Fancourt

OUT THE WINDOW

Stand at the window
staring at no one, nothing
just standing.
I don't want to join the crowd,
I don't need to anymore
laugh, talk, chatter
I need some quiet, some alone
don't bother me.
When I ask you to leave me,
don't feel hurt,
I just don't need you right now.
I need a change,
maybe I'll find it
out the window

Odessa Owens

THE TRUTH

I told you the truth
quiet and careful
you kept walking.
I told you again, louder
making you hear
you faced straight ahead.
I screamed it out, crying
trying to reach you.
You walked away
I ran after you,
but I never found you.

SARAJEVO CHILD

On a warm, dusty morning the cry of a wounded child rises up through the streets of Sarajevo. This child is crying because last night she lost her mother, her brother and her eyes to a wailing shell. But although the bomb screamed louder, the child's scream is clearer.

Her voice will not go unheeded. It will not be ignored by a people, a segregated people, so used to the cries of bombs that now mean nothing to them.

The mother of another innocent Sarajevo child will hear this child's cry and will give her a home, what little medical care is available and most of all, love.

But what will we give her?

Will we give her our pity? Will we watch her plight and that of her naive little Croatian, Muslim and Serbian friends on our televisions and say, "Oh, how horrible for them"? Will we sit behind our brand new computers at school and comment to our well clad friends, "Isn't it terrible that the children in Sarajevo don't even have pencils and paper to write with"?

Is this our idea of brotherhood, global understanding and world peace that we pay lip-service to merely because it is 'trendy'?

This talk may enhance our image as a caring, aware person, but it won't help the children of Sarajevo.

These children, without textbooks, without computers, without pencils, caught in the middle of a war they can't understand, know a lot more than we ever can. Listen to the children.

SEVENTH FORM OPC

Group Two-the best, most talented and most daring

OPC 1993 like many other years, was the highlight of the year for the twenty 7th Formers who took up the challenge of the course. We were divided into two groups although we bunked together which provided a few laughs (except for Jamie's snoring and John's grunting which prevented many people from sleeping). The course included a full week of skiing, tramping, caving, abseiling, rock-climbing and attempting to conquer trapezes, swings and flying-foxes.

Group Two from the first day under the guidance of Dave, achieved a high level of success, team co-operation and friendship which lasted throughout the week. During this time many nicknames were established, some that will probably last a lifetime. Here they are: John 'Speedy' Bolger, Trina 'Bladder Balls' Cowley, Kelly 'Screamer' Austin, Kristie 'Mud' Blong, Jamie 'Staunch' McDonald, Warwick 'Shag it' Hanlon, Nigel 'Monkey' Thompson, Glen 'Slips' Roper, Amber 'Crater' Erueti, and Ryan 'Sleepy' Neumann.

Group One also had a great week (so we've heard-although we don't know how!) working well together and achieving all the tasks set.

Thanks to Mr Cooper for organising the trip and the brave teachers, Mr Gabites and Ms Kendrick for their company and friendship (we appreciated the Night Watch!).

On a lasting note, some memorable quotes from the week.

John (flying-fox) - "I felt a big jerk."

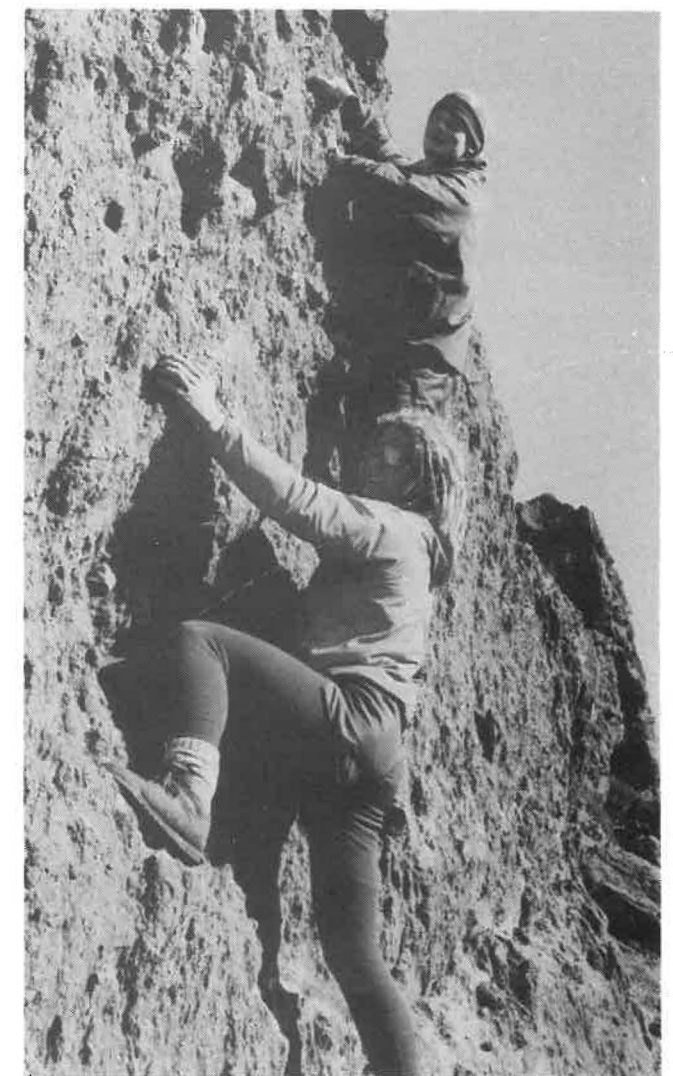

John (abseiling) - "Slow down!" Jamie - "You haven't moved yet!"

Trina (caving) - "Guys, I need to go to the toilet."

Kristie (tramping) - "Anyone for a mud fight?"

Toby (night time) - "The doctor's waiting for you"

Regan (night time) - "One, one last time"

Regan and Toby making it to the top

That's what friends are for!

SPOTSWOOD COLLEGE SKI CLUB

School is not all uphill because skiing continues to grow rapidly with demand for our newly acquired hire equipment often exceeding supply!

Unfortunately this year saw the rarely experienced spectacle of no skiable snow on the mountain over our normally busiest time, from midterm break to the August holidays - no skiing for six weeks!! This meant that for the ski team the training day and the Taranaki Champs were both cancelled and the ski club had only one excursion for some lucky 7th Formers before mid term. This was, however, a great occasion, noted more for the bravery of participants than any great skill! Highlights included ALL those who had never ski-ed before, including the blurr (Carl "I was in control" Green) making it to the top of the T-Bar on their first day, only to discover getting up there was actually easier than coming down (except of course, Carl).

The ski team travelled to Whakapapa for the New Zealand Secondary School Champs in September hoping to maintain our top 20 placing from the previous year. Unfortunately, two skiers falling on the first day of the competition saw us finish nearer the other end of the 120 schools participating. But the good performances on the second and third days, particularly by some of those new to racing, were encouraging for next year.

With the purchase of more hire equipment during the off-season, there is every reason for you to get onto the mountain in 1994!

TRUE LOVE

Thomas O'Brian loved to paint. Red, blue, yellow, green, he loved all of these colours, as well as the ones he had created himself. Often he would spend all day painting. There were many things he could do in the institution, but Thomas chose to paint.

Today Thomas was painting flowers. He often saw flowers when he walked in the yard. He loved their colours; bright reds, golds and purples, they inspired him. Sometimes he felt that he simply would not be able to look at the flowers if he couldn't paint them too. Yesterday he had painted beautiful flowers in just these colours. He was a wonderful painter, and Thomas had spent the whole day working on it. But today he could not find it. It was sure that he had left it at the back of the room leaning against the wall, but today he could not see it anywhere. Surely he could not lose such a large painting in such a small, bare room. There was nowhere that a painting could be hidden except behind the dressing table or under the bed, and Thomas had searched both these places. When the nurse came he would ask her if she knew where it had gone.

At eight thirty there was a knock on the door. "Hello Thomas, how are you today?" She often checked on him through the peep hole in the door, to make sure he wasn't hurting himself, but she only ever disturbed him for meals. Thomas liked to concentrate on his painting.

"Hello Sarah, I'm good thanks. Have you seen my painting?"

"Oh yes, isn't it lovely!" She was studying the incomplete work still sitting on the easel. "Not that one, the one I painted yesterday", Thomas answered.

"You didn't do any painting yesterday" the nurse said. "You helped me with the washing, don't you remember?" Thomas didn't remember. "It's breakfast time now," the nurse said. "You can do some more painting after breakfast." Thomas's mood drooped. He was sure he had painted that picture of the flowers yesterday, but then, he did these things sometimes. Imagining that he had painted something, when really he had been doing something totally different. Part of his condition they said. Thomas's mood drooped even further. He sat down at the table and stared at his plate. Dull white sandwiches and dull brown biscuits and a dull yellow banana. They did not make him feel hungry, they only made him think of brighter colours.

Nurse Sarah Johnson strode briskly down the spotless pink corridor, her dark brown braid bouncing against her crisp white smock and her rubber soled shoes making no sound on the polished linoleum. She was feeling particularly confident and relaxed that day, so she decided to stop for a chat with her friend. She paused briefly by the door of the kitchen before stepping into the bright steamy cavern of white tiles and stainless steel.

"Oh Sarah, hi" greeted one of the nurses, her sleeves rolled up and her arms covered with suds. "Hi Angela." Sarah liked Angela. She had a cheerful, honest face and was always friendly. "What's wrong with Thomas today?" Angela asked. "He didn't eat his lunch."

"Oh, he's been hallucinating again" Sarah replied. "He thought he'd painted a picture yesterday, but I know he didn't because he was working with me. He's a bit upset. He must have really liked the picture."

"That's happened before, hasn't it?, I mean, it's been happening quite a lot recently."

"Yes, well it's part of his condition you know." Sarah nibbled nervously on a fingernail. "Must dash, got lots to do before dinner." Sarah ducked out of the kitchen and strode on down the corridor before Angela had a chance to say goodbye.

Thomas would finish this painting before dinner, he decided. It was not quite so bright and cheerful as the other painting, because Thomas himself was not feeling all that bright and cheerful. The painting was of flowers again this time, but of other things as well. Through the flowers was a grey footpath, which extended back to a vanishing point. Walking along the path was a figure of a man. This he painted blue. He spent a long time getting just the right shade of blue. The flowers were red, gold and purple, like the other flowers but different this time, not cheerful and happy but mocking, rather. The blue man wasn't looking at the flowers, he was looking straight ahead. Thomas liked the painting, it seemed to represent him. He would forget about the other imagined painting, he could always paint more like it. He would be like the blue man, and look straight ahead, he would try not to imagine things any more.

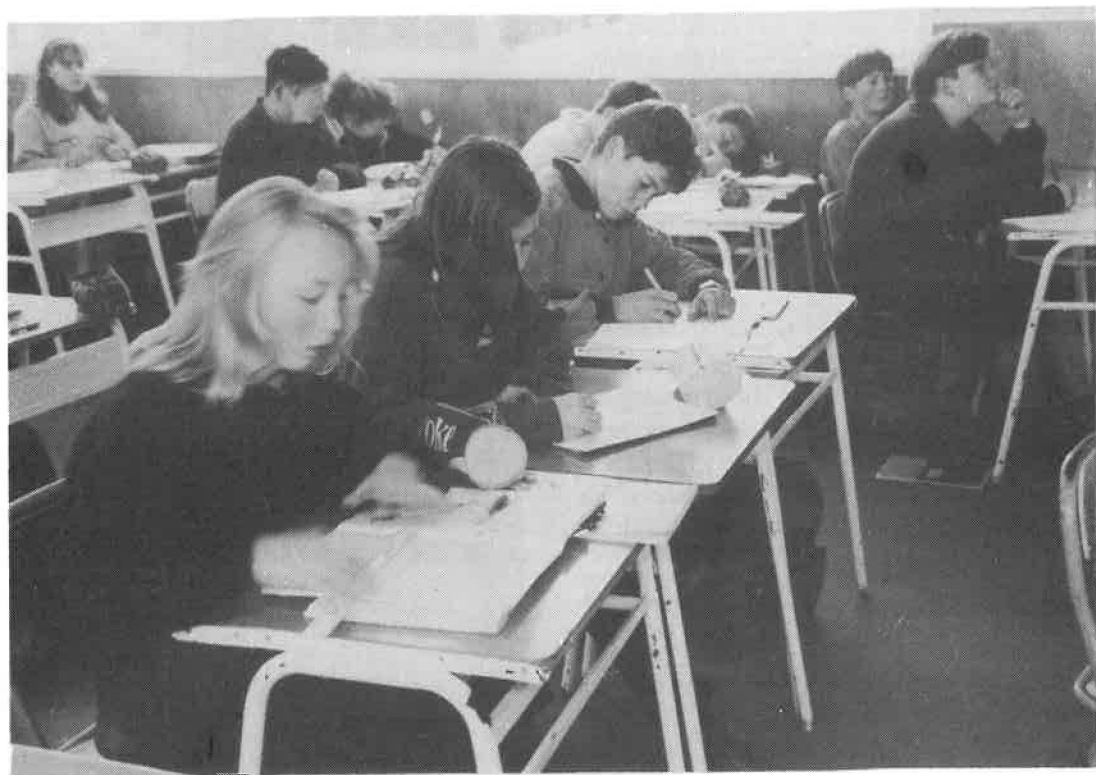

It seemed like only a few minutes after he had sat down that Sarah came knocking at the door again, calling him for dinner. He had, however, managed to get the painting finished and he liked it very much. He even felt hungry. "I see you have finished your picture" Sarah said.

"Yes, do you like it?" Thomas asked.

"Oh yes, I like it" Sarah replied. "I like it very much." As they left the room Sarah paused in the doorway for another look at the newly completed work.

Thomas really enjoyed his dinner. Shepherds pie with honey-glazed carrots. Thomas loved glazed carrots, with their gleaming orangeness. When he swallowed one he felt gleaming and orange on the inside, and it was a good feeling. He finished his dinner early and even took his plate back to the kitchen. As he walked back down the corridor he saw the door to his room open and saw Sarah come out, pushing a laundry trolley. He smiled. Thomas loved Sarah. She was always so friendly and kind and gentle. He waved to her, but she was hurrying down the hall and didn't seem to notice. He opened the door to his room and noticed instantly that something was wrong. The painting was gone. Thomas started to turn, to call out to Sarah, to ask if she had seen it. Then he knew. All of a sudden he knew what had happened to the painting of the blue man, to the painting of the flowers and to all the other paintings that he thought he had imagined. He didn't want to know, he wanted to pretend that he didn't know, but he couldn't. He knew. He also knew that Sarah did not want him to know that she had taken the paintings and suddenly he felt guilty. Then he felt angry. They were his paintings and she had no right to take them. But Sarah was his friend and he loved her and he felt guilty again. Thomas stood in the doorway and stared at the empty corridor with a feeling of utter hopelessness. Then he knew what to do. He carefully stacked the remaining paintings in a neat pile at the back of his wardrobe. He folded up his easel and placed that in the wardrobe too. Then he rinsed off his brushes and paint trays and put them neatly in a drawer. Finally he washed his hands and set off for a walk in the yard, to look at the flowers one last time.

GATHERING SHELLS

Summer

Shells

Scattered beach

Soft black sleek sand

The eyes of little pebbles staring up at me

As I gather the shells

Big ones, small ones

Broken ones, smooth ones

The sound of broken waves lapping at the

Shore is like a welcome tradition

A crab scuttles towards the rocks

To seek shelter from an unknown

Predator

I collect many assorted shells

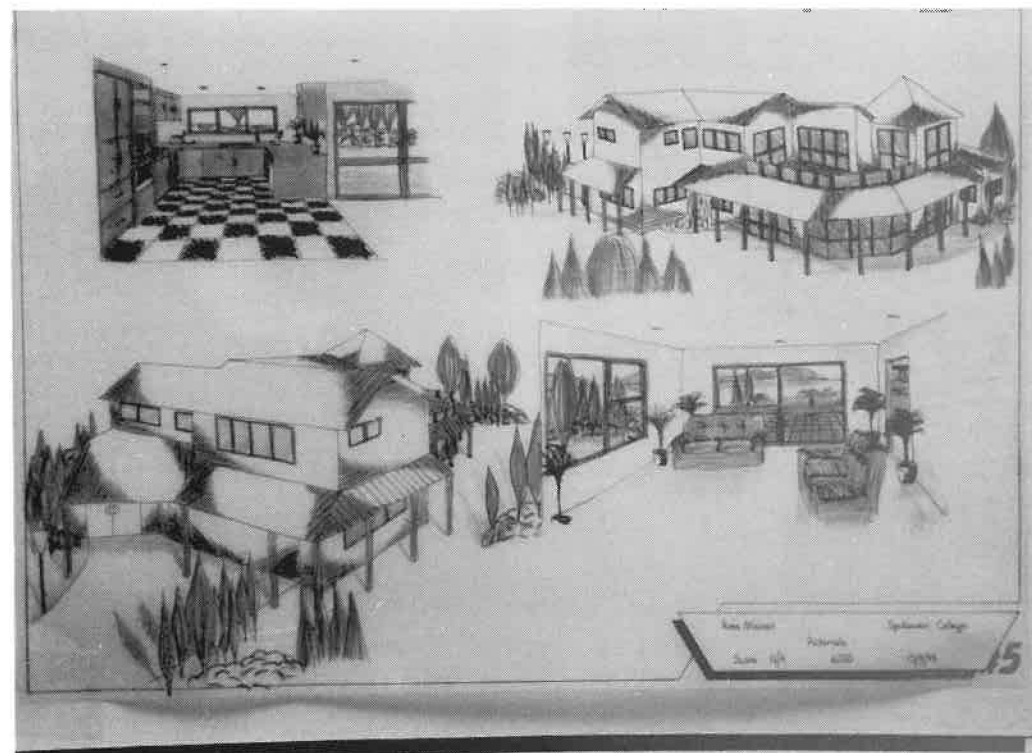

To complete a masterpiece of design

With my sack full as I head for home

I gather my thoughts as I had gathered

GRAPHICS AND DESIGN

Ross Macneil's townhouse design

The Graphics and Technology department is changing to Graphics and Design in the F3 to F7 area of the school. This change means students are given a situation, all given a design brief. They then have to work through possible solutions using skills taught, enhancing drawings with pencil tones, colour rendering, texture, shade and presentation techniques. This concept will allow students to work through design elements to a solution with individual ideas and flair.

Other changes have been the upgrading of the desks to accommodate A2 side paper for use by the senior school. Over the May holidays the desks were stripped, new fittings welded, painted, new tops and trays, drawing arms and lines fitted to a standard that would be the envy of most schools. It is intended to get new comfortable chairs to complement the desks next year.

The F6 Graphics and Design programme incorporated two National Drawing competitions. Architecture was the first where the brief was to design a townhouse on a section with many restrictions and protected trees etc. Three assignments were entered by Ross Macneil, Tina O'Keeffe and Blair Withers but unfortunately they were unplaced.

The Major Project was the next unit of work that qualified for the National Competition. Nearly half of the class entered for the Regional section. Tina O'Keeffe was placed first with her 'Buzzy Bee' assignment. This winning entry was forwarded to Wellington for the National final section.

SIXTH FORM ART HISTORY

"Art History is a really interesting subject. You learn a lot from it!"..... a satisfied customer. This appears to be a rare thing these days, a person happy to be learning. This year's Sixth Form Art History Class appeared to have no doubts as to the value of their year's study.

"You learn a lot without actually trying to... all the interesting things kind of sink in." She was of course talking about the fascinating new course offered that covered or perhaps 'uncovered' Greek and Roman men and women, discovered why the Mona Lisa had that 'funny' smile, or that a guy who was stabbed while in a wooden bath would be thought of as a hero? You might even find out why a woman lay in a bath for hours warmed by candles and strewn with wild flowers...

"You don't need to be artistic... just prepared to learn and have fun..." Not all the students who took the class were from artistic backgrounds, aiming to be the next Michaelangelo or Francis Hodgkins, or were taking Practical Art this year... although it is a great subject to study in conjunction with other art subjects... "it helped me understand art more and be more observant in my own artwork."

"It was a small class and we had a lot of fun in a relaxed atmosphere... one of those rare subjects where you actually don't mind turning up to every lesson" If the students comments are anything to go by, then this year's sixth form Art History class obviously felt it was a worthwhile course to take. Perhaps it was the prospect of tripping around New Plymouth looking at prominent buildings like the White Hart or The Mill or designing their own furniture or painting with Tempera that helped make it such a stimulating subject for them to study.

WRITER'S BLOCK...

I can't see past,
it's in the way.
I can't think of anything
I don't know what to say.
Has anyone got writer's dynamite,
and I'll blow it away.

Peter Coxhead

The beautiful summer sunset heightens to a rosy pink
The world is mystified by the majestic crown of colours.
Slow golden clouds drift across the brilliance of the sun.
The flowers tightly close their petals
and a sleek graceful grey heron dances across the indigo sky.
Dark trees in the distance
are tall, wary shadows.
The grass is cold and damp
like the breath of the night wind...

The last bright star fades away as the sun starts to make its daily journey through the skies.
The first bird sings its cheery melody
as a stream of golden light fills its nest.
Then the flowers unclasp petals one by one
as the sun journeys ever upward
then people awake and the traffic moves past as the serenity leaves the morning silence.

BUSINESS STUDIES

"Hi... Spotswood Business Studies here. How's it hangin'?"

We've come to woo and enhance you into a finer being with the presence of our extraordinary underpants, commonly known as 'Boxa Boxis'. If you're not the academic type, as we are not, this just may be the class for you."

Our exquisite company consists of Stephen Brown, our ever faithful Managing Director, Keri Ward, Company Secretary, Michael Ellison, top of the notch Finance Director and Viv Lea as Personnel Director.

We are associated with the Young Enterprise Scheme (YES for short). It is based in Wellington and we had to pay a registration fee of $112.50 to become a YES company. From this we got our shares to sell, a cheque account at the National Bank and the opportunity to enter various competitions. Because we were involved with this scheme, we participated in a midyear and end-of-the-year report with the latter being held at the Devon Hotel where we managed to pull off having the most innovative presentation.

We would like to thank Mr Bayly for getting us through the year. He has been a great help and we could not have done without him. Also Mr Fanthorpe for being our mentor for the year. He helped us a lot in the business way of things. And most importantly, you guys for buying our product. It was great being involved with Spotswood Business Studies this year. I recommend it to anyone and everyone next year.

Keri Ward

The Business Studies team letting it all hang out

BUSINESS MANAGEMENT GAME

Six of Spotswood's ablest commerce students, five of them sixth formers and one seventh former, participated in this year's Business Management Game. Run by Champagne Consultants the game was a competition involving participating teams from all around the country, from schools to well-known and respected businesses. In what may be described as simulated business scenarios, teams, divided into groups of five, competed against each other, trying to make the highest possible profits on the selling of various forms of stock. Every week and a half or so, our team would receive a Decision Sheet which had to be filled in and return faxed within a few days - before a certain deadline. For this, the team had to decide on things such as the setting of prices, marketing, wages for consultants, the purchase of stock and other assets, bids for contracts and many other decisions typically associated with the running of a business. A few days later we would receive the set of financial results informing us of how effective our previous strategies, and the strategies of the other teams in our group had been - we used this information as a guide and basis for making the next set of decisions.

As complicated and as totally, utterly and emphatically boring as it all may sound, we had an absolute ball at our decision meetings. At certain times Dimetre 'The Brain' Triadis wept bitterly, deeply offended at the insults being hurled at his beloved 35cent calculator; Sarah 'Gary' Gleeson defended herself from the blows of a menacing tee-square; Jamie Banks imitated a chicken with an Indian accent; Kane 'Fudge' Laurence just simply laughed at Jamie Banks; Jamie Robertson was just Jamie Robertson, and Glenn 'Typical' Steffensen was just simply there.

The team was rewarded for the many strenuous hours it put into the game as it eventually succeeded in attaining its primary goal of coming 1st in its group (which included New Plymouth Girls High School, Tasman Forestry, Hutt Valley High School and Ernst & Young) and coming close to making the school final.

Jamie Banks

A POPULATION OF ONE

Slowly the red sun rose over the blackened hills. Its warm rays ran down over the black earth till they reached the dense green bush. A damp, mossy smell crept down to the waters edge. It wafted over the still waters of the lake to engulf a small wooden cabin. Fingers of mist disappeared into the bush as a wisp of smoke rose slowly from the tin chimney pipe. A bird called shrill and high, piercing the morning silence, then a chorus of bird song filled the air, singing their praises to the world!

Becky heard the birds, smelt the wood smoke and saw the sun rise. Rice and apples, that she had grown herself in the valley were her breakfast. The rice was heating on the tin stove.

While she ate her breakfast she thought about her grandfather. Of the stories he used to tell her about the time before the catastrophe happened. When there were cities, with big buildings everywhere, that touched the sky and mirrored it to the people, millions and millions of them. The world was busy. They had not always lived in the valley, but when the world became polluted, her grandfather had moved them to the valley. He said that the lake was the last unpolluted, mysterious place in the world. There had been others like him, who had moved back to the wilderness, away from the crazy world, away from the senseless destruction, to peace.

After breakfast she did what she had done for as long as she could remember, every morning.

Click, the radio crackled to life.

"Outpost 2 calling outpost 1, do you copy" silence.

She waited a while then flicked the switch again to another frequency.

"Outpost 2 calling outpost 3, do you copy" silence . . . click.

"Outpost 2 calling outpost 4, do you copy" silence . . . click.

"Outpost 2 calling outpost 5, do you copy" silence . . .

As always there was no answer, she slowly switched the radio off. The birds chorus covered the silence.

Becky slowly opened the door to the world. The old sun that hung in the sky like an over-ripe apple, warmed her frail body as she stepped outside. Its warm fingers reached out to touch her already bleached hair.

The lake stirred as the pebble she tossed broke the surface. It sank slowly into the icy depths. The daisies decorating the lake bank sent their sweet smell up to surround the girl in their perfume. There was no one else here but the small girl, a population of one.

Wake up!
Listen to me, hear my
Point of view.
I have a life.
I need some space;
Let me grow

Leave me alone
Don't crowd me,
Don't talk like that
When you know what will happen;
Go away!

I want space
I need freedom
I have a life
I am an individual
With thoughts, ideas
Aspirations.

Get out!
I want peace;
We clash - WAR!
Let me get a life
I need to lead
My own life.

Tabitha Arthur

Forests, your trees are growing
But there is one
stunted
The sun cannot reach it as it is shaded by a bigger tree
an older tree

Sea, your waves are breaking
but there is one which cannot break
It cannot reach the shore
as it has been taken over by a bigger wave
a fiercer wave

Earth, your plants are thriving
yet there is one wilting
It cannot breathe
as it is being strangled by a bigger plant
an overpowering weed

Tabitha Arthur

IN A CHILD'S EYE

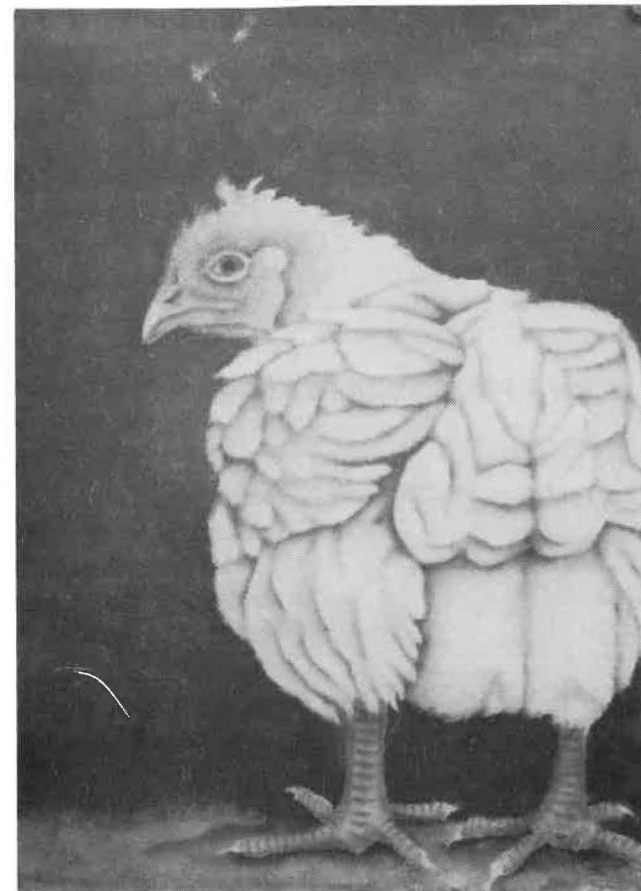

Wow!
Look at that,
Flying above my head
Big and bright and colourful
So pretty and so free

Maybe it's a bird
But birds are bigger than that.
Maybe it's a bee,
But bees are yellow and black.
What can it be, I wonder!

I hear no sound
It does not whistle or buzz or sing
Just floats delicately by,

Oh look!
It's landed near to me
On that flower, near the tree
Colours so magnificent
Movements all light, floating
Oh, the feeling, to be free.
I wonder what it could be.

RUGBY 1ST XV

This year was very much a rebuilding stage for the Spotswood 1st XV. With the young team consisting of only one 7th former it was very difficult to compete in the forwards with a considerable lack of size in comparison to the other teams.

The year started off somewhat shakily with consistently low numbers turning up to practices which reflected adversely in our performances including our finishing 7th out of 9 at the Taranaki Secondary Schools Sevens tournament. With morale low it made it hard to gain confidence for the tough grading games we faced in the early stages of the season. After being placed in A2 Division, the team pulled together well and performances started improving as we registered as many, if not more wins than losses.

With our strengths being in the backs we tended to spin the ball out more often (when Blair didn't kick it!) This resulted in fast and exciting football.

Some highlights of the year included drawing 22-all with Boys High and a dramatic last minute win over Waitara High. Superb talent was shown by Daimen Lobb with 23 tries (115 points), excellent goalkicking by Andy Murfitt (103 points) and bonecrushing defensive work by Daniel "Hard as nails" Maitland.

All in all it was a top season. Many thanks to Peter McCall, Graeme Riddick, the crowd for their support and all the lads who gave their all for the whole season. Next year is certainly looking brighter with another year's experience under our belts - definitely a team for the future.

Thanks lads and see ya next year.

SPOTSWOOD COLLEGE RUGBY FOOTBALL CLUB

Towards the end of the rugby season a public meeting of concerned parents and rugby supporters was held in the school staff room. The concern was at the level of participation of people playing rugby within the school. After much discussion and a unanimous decision that something could be done to help rugby players at school, a committee was formed with the idea of setting up a rugby club in the school.

The focus of the club is to get as many people as possible playing a team sport. It is hoped that next season the school will field 5 boys teams and 1 womens team in the Taranaki competition. This is an increase of 3 teams from this year.

The club will be holding its AGM in the first week of school in 1994. It is hoped that all parents/caregivers that are interested in supporting rugby in the school either as managers, coaches or just supporters will attend the meeting.

3RD FORM RUGBY

This season we were thrust into the deep end of the division. In our first game against Francis Douglas we suffered a humiliating defeat which resulted in our relegation to E Grade. Here the boys were on top of every team, showing their true talent. Promoted back to D Grade, the boys were much wiser and handled themselves with improved skills.

John, Phillip and John showed their class as they worked the backline with class and expertise. Reuben, David, Michael and Brian (who broke down) put on the finishing touches and were really keen for the ball. Gareth was a top halfback but always, like the other backs, was hounded by Regan who could play anywhere with style. Lawrence was interesting at fullback, breaking the line whenever he pleased.

Daniel secured great ball in the line-outs at all times and was well backed up by Sioli. Adam, when he turned up or when he listened, proved to be the pick of the forwards. Fraser showed that the bigger they are, the more he likes it. Ian always had something to say and Paul and Darren were consistently good. Thomas who wanted to be flank, made a change into a good loosehead prop. Kenny was rarely in the mood to play but was a big help on the sideline to John and me.

Thank you to all the supporters who without fail showed up to support the boys. That was much appreciated. Thanks for a great season, guys.

Spotswood College is very well represented in the equestrian sport. We have a number of riders competing at different levels. This is more of an individual sport but there are two team competitions each year. A show jumping competition is held in Wanganui and a one-day event is hosted in Taranaki by a high school, usually the previous year's winner. This year Spotswood will be the hosts. For the past two years Spotswood has competed strongly for both of these titles and has won one and been placed second in the other. This year we won the one-day event and came second at Wanganui.

Individually we have had many successes. We currently have 3 riders competing for the National Barmac Grand Prix points prize leading up to the National 'Pony of the Year' competition. These riders are Helan and Claire Tompkins and Christine Egarr all riding A and B Grade ponies. This is the highest grade where fences of 1.2m and 1.45m are jumped. Daryl Egarr, Heidi Richardson Anna Looney and Claire also event horses out of Taranaki. They travel an average of 8 hours each week to compete in shows and events from Whangarei to Wellington.

Major successes to date include Claire and Helan being selected for the North Taranaki Timberlands eventing team and the Taranaki team for the New Zealand Pony Club Championships team. They were second overall in the teams and Claire finished 3rd individually. Heidi Richardson was travelling reserve for both of these teams. Christine was selected to represent North Taranaki at the Cambridge Show Jumping North Island Champs. Helan also represented Taranaki at the New Zealand Dressage Championships where she finished 1st in her zone. In Taranaki the success rate is still very high with Liz Mayhead competing on her B Grade pony, Angela Kirby on her young hack and Anna Looney on her two horses. All of these riders were very successful.

Also competing locally and participating in team events are Patrick Watson, Jessic Goldsmith, Jessie Vossler, Dana Murray, Samantha Laugesen, Bianca Wilks, Michelle Turner, Kelly McDonald and Rena Hills.

BALLAD OF THE IGNORANT

I do not harvest hatreds
 War is only an image
 Of people far from our home shores
 Of a people that we don't know

I do not help the wounded
 Who die in rotting war wounds
 Untouched by putrefication
 Just the hatred of a word

I do not support the old man
 When they took from his sanity his crutches
 Left in the old burning village
 From his birth to his future, and death

I do not mourn the memoirs
 Of those who died in their childhood
 Never reached maturity
 Only reached a gun

I do not worship stormclouds
 Of the wars on others homelands
 They never pressure our people
 To die for an enemy's flag

I do not count the corpses
 Of the people who died in battle
 I never saw their faces
 Why should I remember their name

TROUT FISHING

Late April, given heavy rain and sun
 For a full week, the trout will rise
 At first just one, a big fat brown
 Among others small and tiny, weren't worth catching
 You caught that first one and its body was fat
 Like pulling in a racing car
 Leaving blisters from the cork handle
 Then massive ones rose and that's sport
 Sent us out with nets and flies
 Where trout bit and iced water leaked into our waders
 Round rock pools, waterfalls and rapids
 We waded and cast until the trout had risen
 Until a big brown got beached on the sand bar
 Our hands were blistered, our feet frozen
 Each year I hoped they stay in that stretch
 But knew they would not.

SURFING

This year a large number of students took part in the school trials in March. From a field of around 40 hopefuls, 9 surfers were selected for the Spotswood Surfing team. This team competed in the inter-secondary competition held at Back Beach during mid-March.

Cressy Wells and Douglas Campbell competed in the body board section and Charlotte Fanthorpe was our lone woman representative and gained an excellent second place in the womens section. This was an outstanding performance as this was Charlotte's first competition. Daniel Fanthorpe also excelled as our youngest team member and it looks like he will become our secret weapon in the future.

The wave conditions were small and glassy and this allowed all competitors an even chance. The boys gained high places in the semi finals but, alas, when all was added up, Boys High managed to take the cup.

SWIMMING 93

This year Spotswood College Swimming Team travelled to the Interschool Swimming Championships at Opunake. The team carried with it to foreign school soil a wish to compete, a great deal of enthusiasm and a supportive team spirit.

Guy Honnor achieved success in the Senior Boys backstroke by gaining 3rd place. Both the Junior Girls and Intermediate Girls won 3rd places in the medley relays.

To all the swimmers:

Guy Honnor, Rebecca Mottram, Jared Trott, Bardley Gyde, Tania Salisbury, Jenny Tudor-Cole, Sarah-Jane Thorstensen, Anna Looney, Travis Murdock, David Carter, Danny Govier, Nathan Strachan, Gemma Perry, Jackie Laugesen. Thank you for the participation, enthusiasm and commitment to Spotswood College Swimming.

A special thanks also to Mr Gabites for his time and support of the team.

THE MALCOLM MAYFLOWER STORY

The forest is clear and still. It is late autumn and the trees are withered skeletons, reaching their bare and bony branches to the sparkling pale blue of the English morning sky. Their leaves are fallen remnants, coating the forest floor with a thick, golden carpet that crackles and whispers underfoot. Despite the appearance of desertion, the forest is alive with creatures. A pair of tiny robins chatter and play amongst the bare limbs. A squirrel can occasionally be seen, hopping shyly from tree to tree, searching for a last addition to his winter stores. A capercaillie, or cock of the woods, steps gingerly out from behind a fallen branch. He knows that his humble brown and black plumage can not disguise his immense proportions. He is the largest of all the game birds, about 85 cm long. His mate steps out nervously beside him as she is not much smaller, but better camouflaged with mottled brown plumage and a rust coloured breast patch. They have a very good reason to be nervous. It is the game bird season and they are a sought after prize. In almost every part of the woods a hunter is hiding, in huge nests made from branches and leaves waiting for just such birds as themselves.

Sure enough, a hunter is waiting nearby. He has built his hide about 80 yards away on a ridge, under a willow tree. He is cunningly hidden and he remains perfectly still. The birds step further into the open, their confidence building. They are within the huntsman's range now, but still on the ground. Malcolm Mayflower is a star, a celebrity, although if you were to see him now you would never have guessed it. Dressed in a pair of patched up corduroys, a thick woollen jersey and a pair of scuffed but sturdy tramping boots, one could be forgiven for mistaking him as an everyday recreational game hunter - just the impression that Malcolm was aiming for. His sudden rush to stardom as the leading actor in a surprisingly successful British mini-series was enough to make even the most level head spin. The birds move further into view. Malcolm waits. Throughout the series and for weeks after it had finished he had been hounded by the media. At first it had been flattering - interviews, articles, features about his career. Then the tabloid press joined the game. Since then he had had more publicity than he could ever have coped with, and mostly bad. The retriever sitting quietly by his side begins to whine with impatience. Malcolm waits. One reporter, a young man with no respect for the truth, had followed him constantly, trying to record his conversations, begging for any information that was "previously unknown" and harassing his friends and family for any childhood secrets that could be exploited. Once there was even an article that implied he had once had an incestuous relationship with his aunt. There were no facts in the story, of course, as it was absolute rubbish, but the implications had caused a lot of stress for himself and his family. Malcolm had developed an intense dislike for the man. The birds look up nervously towards the hide and halt in their tracks. Malcolm chooses to wait.

The hunting trip was a secret. Malcolm had told only two people - his father and the old groundsman. He knew that his father would be faithful to the end, never leak the whereabouts of his trip. The old groundsman, Malcolm didn't know very well, but he had to tell someone else other than his father so he told the old groundsman. Malcolm smiles to himself. He knows that the young reporter will conduct a thorough search, do anything to find his hideaway. The birds move into the centre of the clearing. The dog whines. Still, Malcolm waits. On the other side of the ridge, about 70 yards away and through the trees is his cabin. He chose this spot for his hide as he knew the clearing to be a popular feeding ground for grouse, and 70 yards from the cabin is "roughing it" enough for Malcolm. The birds seem quite content now, pecking around in the clearing. Malcolm waits. Ten minutes become twenty. Still the birds remain in the clearing. Still Malcolm waits. Suddenly, out of the corner of his eye he catches a glimpse of movement through the trees. The birds begin to move out of the clearing. Malcolm raises the loaded 12 gauge shotgun to his shoulder and turns towards his target in one fluid movement. Gently he squeezes the slack out of his trigger and centres his sights on his prey. At only 60 yards he can be sure of this shot. He squeezes the trigger just a fraction more and the forest explodes in a crash of sound.

The clearing is empty. The whole forest is alarmingly still. Malcolm crawls out of the hide and stretches his legs. A quick scan of the surrounding forest confirms to him that his aim had been sure. He slowly approaches the body of the young reporter, stretched limply on the forest floor. Staring down into that familiar and well hated face, now peppered with shot, Malcolm waits for the guilt to come, come quickly so that he can deal with it quickly. Those staring, sightless eyes give him no such regrets. However, Malcolm smiles to himself. It had been worth the wait.

OPPRESSION TO REVOLUTION

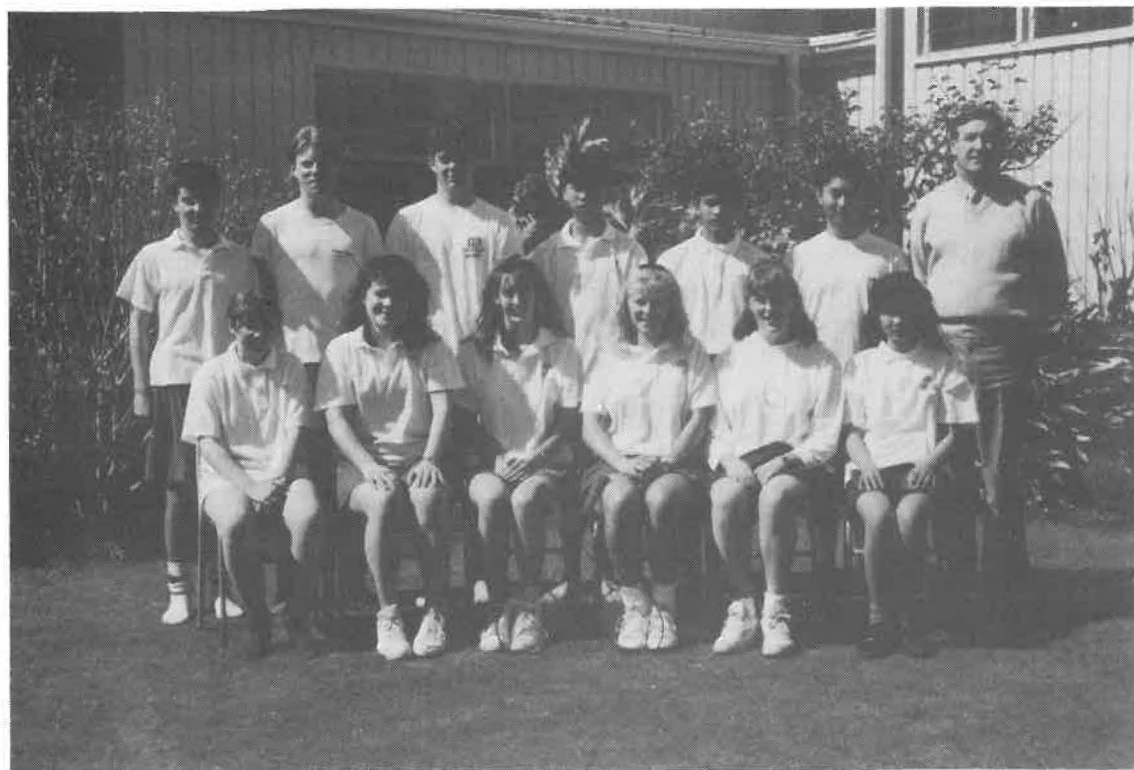

The fire has been controlled
Too many times.
The spark has been quenched.
What fire can burn
In a cold concrete world,
There is nothing to fuel the fire.

Slowly, secretly, silently,
The spark is rekindled.
Silently, slowly, secretly,
Seeking sustenance
In a world of shadows,
Where nothing exists.

A flicker! A flame!
A release of
Pent up fury
In a flood of fire.
Scorching secrets,
No longer silent,
Are free.

The Badminton Club meets on Monday nights from 3.30 to 5.30 and was well supported through the season. Squads were chosen from the club players and the first tie was against Hawera but this was a bit of a hiccup as we were told to bring a junior team of F3 and F4 players. We found that their team consisted of seniors.

We won a couple of games which was satisfying, thanks to Rod Eales. The next tie was against Fraser in Hamilton where we had our top squad and had a good win for the school. Next we contested the Taranaki Secondary School Tournament held at Girls High. This was a most successful day with Rod Eales winning the junior boys singles, Tina O'Keeffe and Kerryn Drewery winning the senior girls doubles. Tina and Kerryn got into the finals with Tina having another success winning the singles.

With our strong showing at this tournament, we were invited to represent Taranaki in the girls section of the regionals which were held in Wanganui. The team went in good spirits and determination finishing third out of five teams. We finished the season with the club champs with Tina O'Keeffe winning the singles and Tina and Kathy Hill winning the doubles.

Finally, thanks for the coaching by Trent Riddick and Robert Ramsay and to the players for their support. Hope to see some of you again next year.

THE COMPARISON . . .

"Oh I squashed a fly!"

"Who cares."

"I do!"

"Why? There are so many of them."

"But whenever people die,
we feel sorrow if they were killed or slaughtered"

"But that's different."

"No, it's not; there are so many humans but we still mourn."

"It's only an insect!"

"We're only human!"

PEER SUPPORT

This year saw the introduction of the Rotary sponsored Peer Support programme at Spotswood College.

Initially teachers were taken through the programme and they decided the sessions that would help 3rd Formers adjust to secondary school and which sessions would have a positive influence benefitting the whole school.

So with the enthusiasm of Ms Jansen and Mrs Gaze, a group of 60 6th Formers gave up their first two days of the Christmas holidays to be trained as Peer Support leaders.

They were then allocated to Form 3 form teachers who were then trained and allocated to the new students.

On Day One of the new school year the programme began. Straws, minties and paper plates were ordered and soon both the seniors and the juniors were involved in the programme.

Peer Support proved to be a very successful programme for both the seniors and the juniors and we look forward to its continuation next year at Spotswood College.

I tell you the truth, youth
 Don't worry of these things
 Don't let these thoughts place you off track.
 Just live life to the full
 Thank God for what you have,
 pray to him, worship him,
 and be kind to your fellow (wo)man
 Let the universe worry about itself
 May the Lord's hands protect you
 May the Lord's hands guide you in the best path possible
 So don't worry about these things
 Don't let these ponderings trouble you,
 Just live life as best you can with the help of God

The 1993 season for the Senior A netball team was one of the best we have had for many years. Credit for this must go to our great coach Doug Tuirirangi and manager Miss Abel for all the time and effort they put in.

The beginning of the season saw us promoted to the 1st Grade where we managed to stay for the rest of the season, something which we have not managed to do in the past.

We also had one of our most successful years in the Taranaki Secondary Schools Pak 'n Sav league coming a respectable 5th with good wins against Opunake and Inglewood High Schools, Sacred Heart and St Marys.

Interschool matches were also successful this year as well as being a lot of fun. We beat Fraser High School 40-15 and Aotea College from Wellington 28-17.

I would like to thank all the team members for the time they put in and congratulate them on the good netball they played. And last but not least, I would like to wish the team good luck for future seasons.

The season started with a huge loss. Fortunately this was the exception and although we were relegated to the second division, we managed to go undefeated and winning that division.

Many thanks to all the parents who supported us throughout the season. This support was incredible. A special thanks to Mrs Needham, Mr and Mrs Johns, Mrs Berry, Mr Burt, Mrs Shoemark and Mr Bain.

The season ended with the Smoke-Free tournament in Hamilton. Two brave women, Mrs Cottam (manager) and Mrs Shoemark (coach), gave up their time to accompany the team. We played on turf which was a disadvantage to us but we played brilliantly as a team with some good results. The whole team gave it heaps.

It was great to see that the skills of the newer players were very high. The veterans of the team, Cat, Lyn, Louise and Karen S, outclassed the opposition.

Thanks to Adele and Arron who gave up their time to coach us. Last but not least, a big thanks to Miss ('I'm going golfing') Andrews who did all the organising and a real good job.

WOMENS 1ST XI SOCCER

As you can see from the photo, the soccer team consists of a great bunch of people. They are all very talented and generally outstanding people.

I am not one to boast but our coach, Lisa Roper, also an outstanding player, was a great influence on the team. She donated her time two nights a week to bring our team to peak performance. For this the team thanks her sincerely. We would also like to thank Ms Kendrick who was there from the beginning and motivated us throughout the season. Where would we have been without her? Probably playing our games in dirty strips because she also took our strips home and washed them. Thanks Ms Kendrick.

I would also like to congratulate the following members of our team for making the Taranaki representative team: Broni Knightly and Nicola Brooking (under 15). Melissa Kervall and Nicola Brooking (under 17).

We had a great season which was a huge improvement on last year. I want to thank everyone who supported our team throughout the season.

The 1992-1993 season saw limited competition for the Spotswood College girls cricket team with Opunake and Girls High being the only other teams entered. We had a very close loss against Girls High (8 points) with Melanie Hansen and Tina O'Keefe batting outstandingly.

Our interschool game against Stratford was one many will remember. Our team scored 168 runs and Stratford scored 19 runs. Debbie Kidd batted well contributing 31 of the runs and Tina top scored with 40 runs. Melanie took 5 wickets for 9 runs.

Thanks to the team for great dedication and attitude as every player's contribution has been important. Thank you also to Mr McCall and Mr Priestley for taking time out to help umpire and manage the team. Good luck to the younger girls playing cricket for the school in the future.

Anna Priestley

1ST X1 CRICKET

Not an outstanding year but still some good results and personal achievements. V. Robinson proved a very capable all-rounder, making a lot of runs and taking many wickets.

B. Brigby supported the middle order with some hard hitting and B. Gabites contributed to some good opening stands.

G. Bond, J. Neate and A. Burton contributed experience in both batting and bowling.

D. Johnson developed well as a bowler as did J. Banks.

The final college match against Stratford was easily won with Ross Goldfinch hitting the winning runs.

Thanks to Mr Robinson for his support.

2ND X1 CRICKET

For a team of younger and inexperienced cricketers, these players performed well in a men's grade.

While not winning many, the talent started to show through as the season progressed. Basically, inexperience lost them one or two games.

Players to develop were J. Trott, B. Bayliss, K. Lawrence, D. Burton, D. Heard while S. Tennant and S. Hodson provided a 'fiery', if somewhat erratic opening attack. D. Triadis worked hard in the field and J. Smith worked hard as a keeper. T. Stewart developed well as bowler and batsman.

VOLLEYBALL - 1993

It is again with much pleasure that we can report on another most successful year for both girls and boys teams representing Spotswood College at Volleyball. Players have built on the success of previous years and during 1993 some outstanding achievements have been recorded. In brief the highlights for 1993 have been:

- * Rachel Clareburt selected in the New Zealand Junior Womens Under 19 squad, the North Island Under 19 team and the 1993 National Secondary Schools tournament team.

- * Terri-Anne Sole selected in the New Zealand Under 17 team and the Central Zone Under 17 team.

- * Michael McLorinan selected in the North Island Under 19 team.

- * Dianne Avery, Luisa Sofeni, Erin Rayner, Grant Haskell and Mark Rutherford all selected for the Central Zone Under 17 teams.

- * The Senior Boys, Senior Girls and Junior Girls teams all winning the Taranaki Secondary Schools championships with the Junior Boys team placed second.

- * The Senior Boys and Senior Girls both winning the Taranaki regional qualifying series to attend the national tournament.

- * The Senior Girls being placed seventh and the Senior Boys placed eleventh at the Senior Secondary Schools National Championships.

- * The Senior Girls squad playing in the Central Zone Division One Womens league and finishing third equal thus qualifying for the NZ Club National Championships.

- * The Senior Girls team finishing twelfth at the NZ Club championships.

- * The Senior Boys team winning the New Plymouth Winter League A1 grade.

- * The girls team winning the New Plymouth Winter League C1 grade.

- * The 3rd Form Smash team winning the New Plymouth Winter League D2 grade.

The following report contains more details of the various competitions and results achieved by our teams since the last magazine:

1992 Taranaki Junior Regional Qualifying Series:

Under the new format, each school could only enter one team in the regional qualifying series that was contested over three days in October, 1992. Our teams were:

Boys: Grant Haskell, Simon Priestley, Daniel Burton, David Carter, Simon Tennant, Chris Allan, Patrick Watson, Jamie Searle, Vaughn Crowther and Mark Rutherford.

Girls: Tansi Erueti, Morgana Watson, Tania Hoyle, Erin Rayner, Tetsu Garnett, Hayley Richardson, Nicola Tooley, Jane Aitken and Sarah-Jane Thorstensen.

Only 4 schools entered the 1992 boys series so three round-robin series were played to decide the winner and the team to represent Taranaki at the North Island national tournament. Our boys team played through all three days undefeated winning all nine matches to take the series.

Six girls teams played a round-robin series on each of the first two days with Spotswood winning seven of the ten matches played to finish second equal with NPGHS and Opunake HS. The Spotswood team played their best volleyball on the final day to win all three matches and take the qualifying berth for the North Island tournament.

The squads were:

Girls A: Rachel Clareburt, Kelly Austin, Tanya Bayliss, Kristie Blong, Terri-Anne Sole, Nichola Young.

Girls B: Alena Sofeni, Luisa Sofeni, Dianne Avery, Debbie Kidd, Tania Hoyle, Erin Rayner, Hayley Richardson.

Boys A: Michael McLorinan, Brennan Rigby, Nigel Thomson, Stephen Gill, Mark Oulaghan, Grant Haskell, James Beggs, Daryl Egarr, Clayton Crowther.

Boys B: Ross Goldfinch, Simon Priestley, David Carter, Patrick Watson, Chris Allan, Jamie Searle, Mark Rutherford, Vaughn Crowther.

1993 Taranaki Secondary Schools Senior Championships:

The 1993 Taranaki Secondary Schools senior boys and girls volleyball championships were played at Hawera High School on Thursday 15th April. Both Spotswood teams played well throughout the championships winning all matches played to take both titles.

The girls squad of Rachel Clareburt (Captain), Kelly Austin, Kristie Blong, Tanya Bayliss, Debbie Kidd, Alena Sofeni, Luisa Sofeni, Dianne Avery, Terri-Anne Sole and Nichola Young beat St Marys Diocesan, NPGHS, Stratford

HS and Hawera HS 2-0 in section play and Inglewood HS 2-0 in the semi-final. The final was a re-match against St Marys which we again won 2-0.

The boys squad of Michael McLorinan (Captain), James Beggs, Daryl Egarr, Stephen Gill, Grant Haskell, Mark Oulaghan, Brennan Rigby, Mark Rutherford and Nigel Thomson beat Waitara HS and Hawera HS 2-0 in section play, NPBHS in the semi-final and Inglewood HS 2-0 in the final.

New Zealand Secondary Schools Senior Championships:

The 1993 Smokefree New Zealand Secondary Schools senior boys and girls championships were played in Christchurch from 21-24 April, with Spotswood representing the Taranaki region in both grades for the second year in succession. The teams were the same as these which played at the Taranaki championships.

Our girls team recorded wins over Avondale College (Auckland) and Ellesmere College (Christchurch) in section play with a loss to Bayfield High School (Dunedin). In post-section play they defeated Kavanagh College (Dunedin) and lost to both Te Puke High School and Bay of Islands College. In the play-off for 7th/8th we defeated Marlborough Girls College to finish in seventh place - the third best effort ever by a Taranaki senior girls team.

The boys team defeated Makora College (Masterton) during section play and lost all other matches and post-section games. In the play-off for 11th and 12th we defeated Kamo HS (Whangarei) to finish 11th, two positions lower than our 9th in 1992 but still the second best ever recorded by a Taranaki boys team.

The two major highlights of the championships were the naming of our senior girls captain Rachel Clareburt in the 12 player girls tournament team and the awarding of the first place for the boys and third place for the girls in the Fair Play Award.

1993 New Plymouth Winter League:

Eight teams were entered for this year's New Plymouth winter league Volleyball competition that was played at the YMCA stadium from April through to August. Two rounds of games were played with teams playing seventeen games throughout the league. The two top teams in each grade played off on grand finals night for grade honours. Our teams and placings were:

Senior Boys A: Michael McLorinan, Nigel Thomson, Brennan Rigby, Mark Oulaghan, James Beggs and Daryl Egarr - Winners of the A1 grade.

Senior Boys B: Simon Priestley, Grant Haskell, Jamie Searle, David Carter, Patrick Watson, Chris Allan and Mark Rutherford - 4th in the A2 grade.

Sportswood Girls: Terri-Anne Sole, Debbie Kidd, Hayley Richardson, Nicola Tooley, Jane Aitken, Erin Rayner, Sarah-Jane Thorstensen - winners of the C1 grade.

4th Form Boys: Vaughn Crowther, Brad Bayliss, Brendon Main, Dion Pigott, Lyndon Young, Mathew Thomson, Toby Avison, Kane Moses - 6th in the C2 grade.

4th Form Girls: Jill Tippett, Kyla Williams, Odessa Owens, Josie Roberts, Nancy de Bueger and Christine Egarr - 6th in the D1 grade.

3rd Form Smash: Reuben White, Darren Rogers, Daniel Spittal, Ian Klenner, Rod Eales, Leanne Smith, Amy Frewin, Megan Blackler and Melanie Eynon - winners of the D2 grade.

3rd Form Set: Hayley O'Keefe, Tracy O'Sullivan, Vanessa Brownrigg, Stefan Freeman, Richard Wooffindin, Daniel Berger and Brendon Henchman - 3rd in the D2 grade.

3rd Form Pass: Dion Cowley, Ben Masters, Adam El-Agez, Rebecca Grundy, Kirstin Olsen, Hannah Krutz and Inga Boyd - 5th in the D2 grade.

1992 North Island National Championships:

The 1992 New Zealand Secondary Schools Junior Championships (North Island section) was played in Rotorua from 25-28 November.

After winning the Taranaki regional series, Spotswood represented Taranaki in both boys and girls grades for the fourth consecutive year.

The Spotswood boys team lost all seven matches during section play but in the play-off for 15/16th positions defeated St Johns College (Hastings) 2-0 to claim 15th position, one place better than our 1991 effort.

Our Spotswood girls team played well during section play but could only manage the one win against Dannevirke HS with 5 losses. In the play-off for 11/12th we lost to finish 12th at the tournament.

1992 New Plymouth Pre-Summer League:

Seven teams represented Spotswood College in the 1992 New Plymouth pre-Summer Volleyball league played from 1 November to 20 December. Our overall results were:

Senior Boys A	2nd in the A grade
Spotswood Trumps	3rd in the A grade
Senior Boys B	7th in the B1 grade
Spotswood Clubs	8th in the B2 grade
Spotswood Diamonds	6th in the C1 grade
Spotswood Sapphires	1st in the C2 grade
Spotswood Spades	8th in the C2 grade

1993 Taranaki Senior Regional Qualifying Series:

This year's series was preceded by a B-grade tournament with the top team qualifying to compete in the regional A league. Our girls B team won their tournament winning all five games while the boys team with a win and a loss finished second but qualified for the A league after Hawera HS withdrew.

The A league was again played over three days with the first two used as the preliminary qualifying series to determine the top 5 teams for the final tournament.

Seven teams contested the boys grade with our A team playing through the series undefeated winning all 10 games. The B team was eliminated after the second day finishing sixth with one win and five losses. In the nine team girls grade our two Spotswood teams did not lose a game to any of the other schools to finish first and second. The girls A team won all twelve matches while the only two games the B team lost were to our own A team.

By winning both boys and girls grades Spotswood was to represent Taranaki at the New Zealand Secondary Schools senior championships at Christchurch for the second year in succession.

Inter School Visit to Fraser High School (Hamilton):

This year our senior boys and girls teams travelled to Hamilton with other teams for the annual inter-school fixture against Fraser High School. Our girls team easily accounted for Fraser 3-0, while our boys lost to Fraser 0-3.

1993 Taranaki Secondary Schools Junior Boys Championships:

This year's championships were played at New Plymouth Boys High School on 14th October. The withdrawal of Okato College provided us with a bonus in that we had two teams competing at the tournament.

A Team: Mark Rutherford (Captain), Brad Bayliss, Vaughn Crowther, Mathew Thomson, Dion Cowley, Adam El-Aqez.

B Team: Toby Avison (Captain), Reuben White, Darren

Rogers, Daniel Spittal, Daniel Berger, Brendon Henchman.

Both teams were in Pool B for section play with the A team winning all four matches and the B team two. In the final against NPBHS our A team came back to take the second set after a disastrous loss in the first set and looked likely to cause an upset. Leading at the change-over in the final set, NPBHS went on to take the set and the title for 1993.

Volleyball New Zealand Central Zone - Womens Division One League:

After winning the division two league in 1992, our senior girls team qualified to play in the national first division womens Volleyball league for 1993.

The 1993 squad was: Rachel Clareburt (Captain), Kelly Austin, Kristie Blong, Tanya Bayliss, Dianne Avery, Alena Sofeni, Luisa Sofeni, Erin Rayner, Terri-Anne Sole and Nichola Young.

In the three-round Central Zone competition, our team won 12 of their 20 matches to finish third equal and therefore qualify for the National Club finals which were played in Wellington from 18-21 August.

1993 Taranaki Junior Regional Qualifying Series:

As was the case in 1992, each affiliated school was permitted to enter one team for this year's Taranaki Junior Regional qualifying series to decide the province's representatives at the North Island nationals. Six teams entered both boys and girls grades with three round-robin series being played. The Spotswood squads for this year's Junior Regionals were:

Boys: Mark Rutherford (Captain), Brad Bayliss, Mathew Thomson, Toby Avison, Vaughn Crowther, Reuben White, Adam El-Agez, Dion Cowley, Darren Rogers, Daniel Spittal, Daniel Berger and Brendon Henchman.

At the National Club Championships the team caused a major upset when they defeated Porirua to record their only win. The final placing of 12th was a credit to the team who were playing in an adult competition and against the country's top women volleyballers.

The division one season's record was:

Central Zone: Played 20, won 12, lost 8. Points for 890. Points Against 694.

National Championships: Played 6, won 1, lost 5. Points for 190. Points Against 297.

Girls: Hayley Richardson, Nicola Tooley, Jane Aitken, Sarah-Jane Thorstensen, Jill Tippett, Odessa Owens, Nancy de Bueger, Kyla Williams, Josie Roberts and Melanie Hansen.

Our girls team played through the series undefeated winning all 15 games played and therefore qualified to represent Taranaki at the North Island Division One nationals.

The boys team performed creditably throughout the Taranaki series to finish in second position to NPBHS. Spotswood therefore qualified to play in the North Island Division Two nationals.

Conclusion:

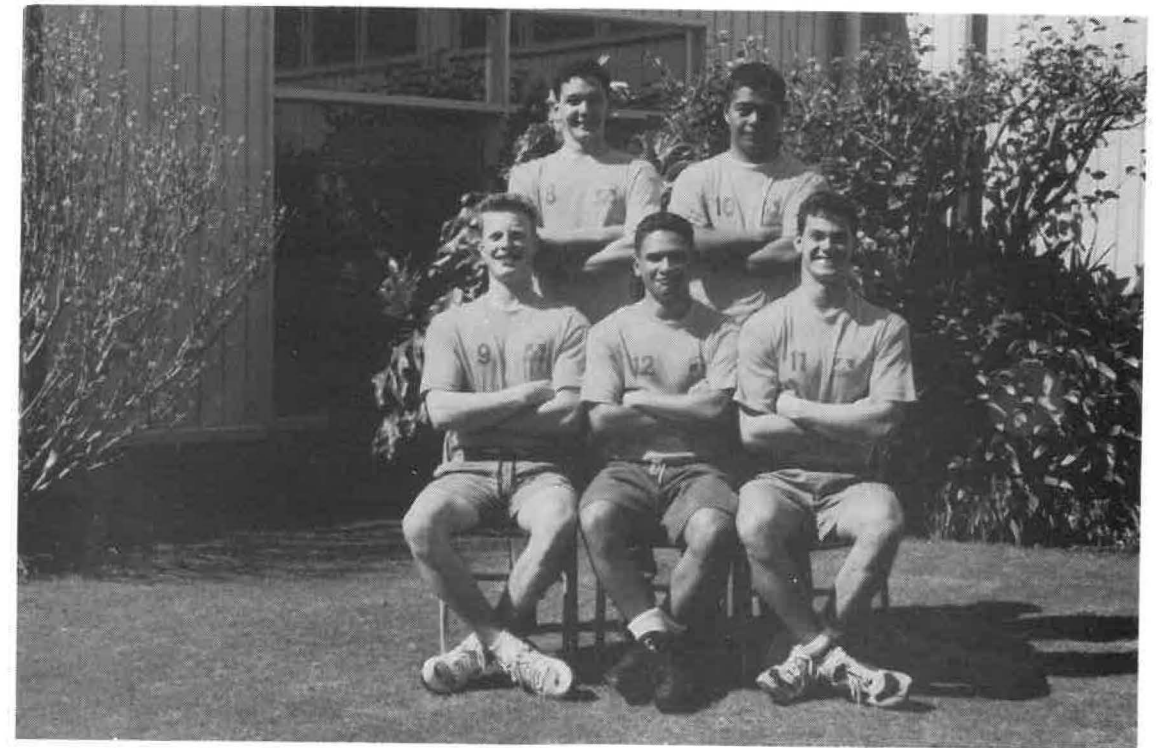

As can be seen from this year's report, 1993 was another exceptionally busy year for students playing Volleyball here at Spotswood College. Like all things in life, you only get from something what you put into it. The hours and hours of skills, practise and training that players took part in this year has paid off with both teams and many individual players reaching an extremely high level of achievement. To all players, Spotswood has a proud record and something worthy of retaining but - it is not easy, you have to work for it.

There are several people that I would like to personally thank for their assistance during 1993. To Mr Joe and Mr Terlinden for their coaching assistance which saw our players receive the best coaching available in Taranaki, my most grateful thanks. Many thanks also to Mr and Mrs Haskell for their assistance at the 1992 Junior nationals in Rotorua and the 1993 Senior Nationals in Christchurch. Our teams would have been the best fed at both tournaments. Thanks for taking the time off work and for making both trips such a success.

To those players leaving New Plymouth for tertiary education, if you can join a club and keep involved in the sport, it has much to offer. To those returning in 1994, give it your best for yourself and for Spotswood.

BASKETBALL A TEAM

This year was a rebuilding for the A team with none of last year's players returning. We gradually improved throughout the year but struggled to match the other teams because of our lack of height but we compensated for this by playing our natural 'run-and-gun' style of basketball.

However, with the lack of team practice and the changes in the team during the season we struggled to perform to our potential as a winning unit.

The season began with the Taranaki Regionals during the last week of Term 1. We reached the 7th vs 8th play-off against Stratford and won 61-55.

The highlight of the season was our fun-filled trip to Fraser High in Hamilton. We started very slowly trailing Fraser 1-24 after 15 minutes but the team united superbly and through team commitment and persistence we pulled back within 6 points with four minutes remaining. Eventually the local referees got the better of us and we lost 59-48.

Our final tournament of the year was the Central Zone at the TSB Stadium. Due to the unavailability of several key players we entered a younger, less experienced and shorter 'fun' team. The team performed creditably and finished a hard fought 12th with wins against Porirua and Waitara and narrow, last minute losses to Waiopahu and Taumararua.

We would like to thank all the participating team members throughout the year and our coach Mr Bruce Bayly for their time, enthusiasm and patience.

Team: Scott Manson, Ross Macneil, Andy Murfitt, Jade Morgan, Guy Honor, Andrew O'Brien, Kyle Ratapu, Jeremy Robinson, Travis Stewart, Keith Bramald, Gavin Horton, Trent Parkes, Grant Haskell and Che Yandle.

BOYS A BASKETBALL

This year the team was chosen as a selection team from the U18 teams and top U16 team. They represented the school in the Taranaki Secondary Schools competition where they missed out making the Regional Tournament. They then played a college game against Fraser College of Hamilton. After being blown away in the first fifteen minutes by an unstoppable American Field scholar having just arrived at Fraser, the team showed true grit and determination and hustled their opposition in the second half and fought their way back into the game to register a narrow loss. The team then played in the August holidays in the Central Secondary Schools tournament. They had good wins against Waiarapa College and Hutt Valley but lacked the necessary height to defend their basket. They ended up 12th out of 16 which capped off a most enjoyable week.

GIRLS SENIOR A BASKETBALL

The A team this year was a very young and inexperienced side. The step-up from under 16 to the Premier Womens grade was huge and we found ourselves playing against bigger, older and more experienced players. Although we tried hard and came close to winning on several occasions, we were relegated to a lower grade for the second half of the season, the Premier Reserve Grade.

We performed very well in this grade, improving with each game both individually and as a team. We reached the quarterfinals and with a top effort won this to advance to the semifinals. We went down against a very strong team but it was a great effort to get this far.

Earlier in the season we played in the Taranaki Schools Championships. This was a very important tournament as we needed to finish in the top four to qualify for the Regionals. With a lot of determination we achieved this by beating Patea High and Inglewood High.

We then travelled to Wanganui to play in the Regional tournament knowing that realistically this was a learning experience. After some hard section games, our final game was play-off for 7th place. In an exciting game we beat Palmerston North Girls High by one point to finish the tournament with a win.

Team awards went to Katie Holland (Most Valued Player), Jodi Autridge (Most Committed Player) and Sarah Paul (Most Improved Player).

Many thanks to our coaches, Janine Murfitt and Michelle Turner whose dedication and commitment helped us a lot. Thanks also to Mr and Mrs Carnachan for their help during the season and to Liz Mayhead and Heidi Richardson who filled in and played well whenever needed.

The team was: Jodi Autridge, Dianne Avery, Andrea Herdman (vice-captain), Katie Holland (captain), Catherine Mayhead, Tina McGregor, Sarah Paul, Amy Riddock, Claire Tompkins, Joanne Wills.

U18 WOOM BA JAZZ

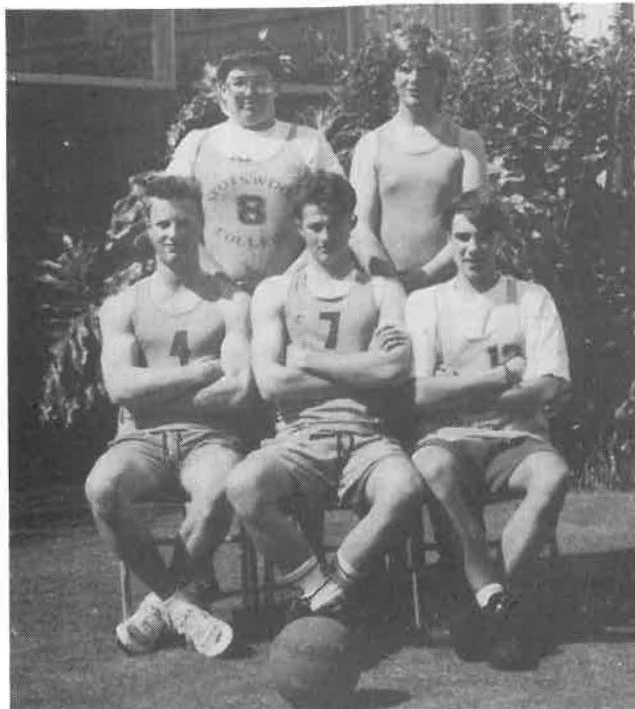

This year we played in the U18 Social League. The season was enjoyable with both highlights and lows. Our outstanding performance of the year was a 60-54 victory over Francis Douglas when we played with only four players for the whole game. We finished the season a very creditable 3rd especially with few practices and no coach.

Outstanding players this year were Scott Manson, Andy Murfitt, Ross Macneil, Kyle Ratapu and Andrew 'Hungus' O'Brien. The team predominantly made up this year's A team and with practices and a team coach could perform excellently next year.

Team: Scott Manson, Ross Macneil, Andy Murfitt, Kyle Ratapu, Guy Honnor, Toby Wright, Andrew O'Brien, Jeremy Robinson and Gavin Horton.

The Hawks was a social team that played the game to enjoy their basketball. They came close at times at causing a few upsets. Thanks to Nathan for being our player coach. It certainly helped our score.

U18 BRAVES BASKETBALL

Our team did well this season. At the start we convinced ourselves we would come dead last. But good team spirit and determination saw us reach the semifinals coming third to end the season on a successful note.

Thanks to team regulars Adele Shaw, Burgundy Fanthorpe, Kylie Runciman, Colleen Bublitz, Corina Rore, Amy James, Rachel Wheeler and Moana-Jane Scott, Moana Klenner and Marina Talo who were a great help leading up to the semis. Special thanks to our coach Mr Fanthorpe without whose help we would never have made it. Thanks also to our supporters.

THE WARRIORS BASKETBALL

We had a successful season with a team that worked well together. Although we lost games in the first section we pulled together as a team and won all our games in the second section. Overall it was enjoyable and we would like to thank our coach Mrs Rowe for giving up her time to coach us.

U14 STEELERS

The team had an enjoyable season entering into the spirit of the game and adhering to the Fair Play ideas right to the end. Thanks to Mrs Plyler for managing the team.

U16 JAZZ BASKETBALL

We started the season with a huge win of about 80 points which boosted our confidence and we won most of our games during the season. It was an enjoyable season and most games were played in high spirits. On some occasions the team looked small but we all had fun. Thanks to coach Alan Gordon for the great practices.

The 4th Form SPC Celtics Basketball team had a great season although we won only a couple of games. We lost most of our games to Girls High and won against Sacred Heart. Although the team was more interested in having a great time we showed a lot of co-operation, sportmanship and teamwork. But the team would not have been a team if it were not for the time and dedication put in by our coaches, Liz and Angela.

If you want a team that is 100% supportive and co-operative, that works as a team and whose motto is "It's not whether you win or lose, it's the way you play it", then we are that team.

SCHOOL LIFE

Town wakes, rain drops
 Have toast, cocoa pops
 Have a shower, pack my bag
 Walk out the door, what a drag

Jump on the bike, ride like crazy
 Because of the rain my eyes are hazy
 Get a flatty, late for school
 I get told off, act a fool

Grab a desk, unpack my bag
 Fall off my chair, what a dag
 Get the instructions, start to write
 He nicked my pens, we get into a fight

Teacher screams, I'm in trouble
 I'm sent out, on the double
 Leave for the headmaster, my head hung low
 I get soaked, so I walk slow

Knock on the door, I walk in
 There's the headmaster, with a big grin
 Pulls down my pants, he gets out the cane
 He wacks very hard, I'm in pain

Ten detentions, he lets me go
 I'll be expelled if I don't show
 I turn up, chewing gum
 Lost my watch, ten to one

I leave detention, head for class
 Better hurry or I'll be last
 School's over, head for home
 Finally get there, talk on phone

My mum yells, tea is ready
 What are we having, white spaghetti
 Skip the homework, time to sleep
 Get into bed, without a peep.
